MOVEMENTS OF THE REBEL CRUISERS.

Our files of foreign journals received Thursday night by the steamers Edinburgh and China, together with those by the Olympus, which left Liverpool Jan. 30 and arrived at this port yesterday, furnish us the following interesting intelligence in addition to that already published:

The "subscription" scheme for the purchase of the Great Eastern did not, it appears, answer public expectation. The subscriptions did not exceed 12,000. They are now being repaid, and the section "without reserve," on the 17th proximo, must be the only hope of the shareholders.

It is said that M. THIERS is to leave for England after the debate in the French Corps Legislatif on the address. His object in visiting London is to consult the archives of the British Parliament.

A telegram from Queenstown says: "Several persons, one of them a professional recruiting agent, arrived by the New-York mail steamer on Saturday, and are now in Dublin, with the avowed object of getting the passage of 'emigrants' to New-York."

A SPEECH BY MR. BRIGHT.

THE COBDEN-DELANE CONTROVERSY—AMERICAN AFFAIRS.

On Jan. 26, Hon. JOHN BRIGHT addressed his constituents at Birmingham—making the first speech that he has delivered since the famous Cobden-Delane controversy. Mr. SCHOLEFIELD, M. P., of the same borough, preceded Mr. BRIGHT, and said, in the course of his speech on America, that the present war was not a war for the emancipation of the slaves, and if it were, it was not the last on that account an General and unjustifiable war. [Cheers and hisses.] Thousands of the Sons of the Emperor Napoleon, gently which pervaded the minds of the Northerners, from the President downward. The President on one occasion declared: "My promised object in this struggle was to save the Union. [Cheers.] Without freeing any slave I would do it; and if I could save it by freeing all the slaves, I would; and if I could save it by freeing some and leaving others alone, I would do that. What I would do about colored men and slaves, I would do because I believe it helps to save the Union." [Cheers.] After such an expression of opinion he was surprised to hear people say that the object of the President was to put down Slavery. [Hear, hear," and marks of disapprobation.] The proclamation emancipating the slaves was issued by the President solely as a war measure to cripple the rebellious and traitorous States. He believed that it was impossible to restore the Union by war. [Cheers and uproar.] If this was a war for the emancipation of the slaves, there he said most emphatically that it was an immoral war. If it was morally right in America to put down Slavery in that country, it was equally morally right for this country to make war upon Spain to put down Slavery in Cuba, upon Russia to put down serfdom, or upon the King of Dahomey to put down fetishism. [Cheers, hisses and great uproar.] He had never been an advocate for peace at any price, but he had always been an advocate for any war that was a defensive war. An aggressive war was to his mind a great crime, and would never meet with his assent and support. He was told that he was blamed not so much for the opinions he had expressed in 1861, but for having joined a Confederate association. He thought he should have been more open to criticism if after expressing his views he had not had the courage to carry them out. He was told that in consequence of the course he had taken he would lose his seat. Deeply as he valued the honor they had conferred upon him, there was something he valued still more highly than a seat in Parliament, and that was the right to speak and act freely and independently within the scope of the powers with which his constituents intrusted him. If for the course he had taken they deemed him no longer worthy of representing them, he should bow to their decision without a murmur. [Loud cheers.]

Mr. BRIGHT was introduced after Mr. SCHOLEFIELD had closed, and was received with overwhelming applause. He said:

"I came here tonight intending to say no single word as to the question between North and South in the United States. My opinion is that the unanimous judgment of the people of England, so far as that is ever shown on any public occasion, is in favor of the course which Her Majesty's Government have publicly declared it to be their intention to pursue. [Great cheering.] I believe that my honorable friend is mistaken in the view which he takes of the meaning and of the result of what he called the reconstruction of the South. [Cheers.] I have seen it stated by authority, North as well as South, and by authority from France, that in the present condition of the quarrel, recognition by all the usages of nations must necessarily lead to something more [cheers] and, therefore, although there were no question of Slavery, although it were simply a political revolt, and that there were no special moral question connected with it, I believe that, looking to the past usage of this country with regard to the rebellion of the Greeks against the Turks, and with regard to the revolt of the Colonies of South America against Spain, that it can be demonstrated that these cases afford no support whatever to the argument that we are permitted to recognize the South, and that if such recognition did take place, we would only encourage what still were the terrible strife which exists on the North American continent, and would spread that strife over Europe itself. [Cheers.] Now, I am myself of opinion, and have been from the first, that the people of America, so numerous, so powerful, so instructed, so capable in every way, would settle the difficulties of that continent without asking the old countries of Europe to take any share in them. I believe that in the providence of the Supreme, the slaveholder, unthought and unforeseeing by fact or argument, or Christian precept, has been permitted to commit—I will not call it the crime, but the act of suicide upon himself. [Cheers.] Whether President Lincoln will be in favor of abolition, whether the North are unanimous against Slavery, whatever may be said or thought with regard to the true meaning of that contest, he believed that it was impossible to restore the Union by war. [Cheers and uproar.] If this was a war for the emancipation of the slaves, there he said most emphatically that it was an immoral war. Mr. BRIGHT then stated the facts in the Cobden-Delane controversy, and remarked:

I will undertake to say, if there be two men in England who have more constantly and more earnestly for twenty-five years preached the doctrine of absolute honesty, with regard to legislation, those two men are Mr. Cobden and myself; [cheers;] but when Mr. Cobden came forward to assail Mr. DELANE with regard to the charge against me, he found a man in a mask endeavoring to stab me in the back. He had not been that the same man had been in the parliamentary place stabbing him, and he came forward and snatched his mask from him, and showed him with whatever hideousness he is distinguished to the gaze of the whole assembly of the world. [Cheers.] Sir, I will say of this question that I look forward to the time when I shall stand on this platform with my honorable colleague, and when he will join with me—for he is honest enough and frank enough to do that—when he will join with me in enjoining that there does not breathe a slave on the North-American continent. [loud cheers.] that the Union has been completely restored, and not love will be rejoice that England did not in the rashest manner, by a word or a breath, or the raising of a finger, or the casting of a cannon, do one single thing to promote the calamitous object of the leaders of this accursed insurrection. [Continued cheering.]

He had not been that the same man had been in the parliamentary place stabbing him, and he came forward and snatched his mask from him, and showed him with whatever hideousness he is distinguished to the gaze of the whole assembly of the world. [Cheers.] After denial and explanation of every kind, the honorable editor of this great journal was compelled to retire from the personal part of the controversy, and skulk back into the anonymous hiding-place behind him. [Laughter and cheers.] Sir, Mr. Cobden and I have gone and laboured together for twenty-five years, and I believe that we brought a honorable to abolish by force of law anonymous writing in our newspapers; but Mr. Cobden laments, as I do, and as you all do, that the anonymous system inevitably is a shelter for a man who has no sense of honor. I recollect a description which will suit Mr. DELANE admirably. It was published some time ago in the City of New-York, and describes a notorious politician there, who, if I am not mistaken, has been at the elbow of the New-York correspondent of the Times for the last twelve months, with what happy success to the forecast and honesty of that paper we all know. It was said of him that he was a just man and a righteous, and he walked uprightly before the world; but when he was not before the world his walk was "slantingdicular." [Laughter and cheers.] Sir, the Times newspaper, notwithstanding all this, is a power in this country, [hear, hear,] and a power in Europe. No man laments more than I do that so much power should be associated with what I call a great intellect and a practical atheism. No one laments more than I do that a paper that was once great in its independence has become now—what shall I say?—domesticated, for the editor of the Times is now domesticated in the houses of Cabinet Ministers and members of high families in London. He has learnt now in this day, when that paper might have been more useful than ever, to fetch and carry for Cambridge-house. [laughter and cheers,] and, Sir, for aught I know, looking to what is said in the clubs in London of the dispensation of patronage to men who have been writers in that journal, I am not sure, unless what I say now may make it difficult, that some day or other Mr. WALTER, the proprietor or chief proprietor of that paper, may not find himself placed in the House of Peers as a compensation for the services offered to the present Prime Minister of England.

Then after reviewing the land question at considerable length, Mr. BRIGHT referred as follows to this country:

"America, though 3,000 miles off, is not so far off but that people may go over there in about 12 days, and they may go there for a sum varying from £2 to £5. During the year that has just passed I think 150,000 or 160,000 persons have sailed from this country to New-York. [Groans and cheers.] Every man who settles down is not blinded by the representations and falsehoods of the New-York correspondent of The Times. [Cheers.] He is there and can see what the working man gets, how he is considered, and what he is, and he writes over to his friends in this country, as has been the case for years in Ireland, and the result has been that Ireland has been drained, not of its surplus population, but of the population actually necessary to proper cultivation of the soil. [Loud cheers.] Now let me tell you a fact, and if you don't treasure it up in your minds, I hope one of those gentlemen, the handowners, who think I am very hostile to them, will just think it over, if he has time, as he eats his breakfast to-morrow or next day. [Laughter.] In America there are at this moment 140,000,000 acres of land, surveyed, mapped, set apart for those who are ready to settle upon them. In the year 1861—that was the first year after this war attained its present proportions—there were not less than 40,000 new farms, over 80 acres each, occupied in the Western States; but the Government of the United States, not content with that measure of progress, passed an act, which came into operation on the 1st of January, 1863, which was called "The Homestead Act." I have a copy of the act here, and I have a copy also of the circular which was issued at the same time. What is that Homestead Act? It is this. It says that any man or woman of twenty-one years of age, or younger, if the man happened to have been for a fortnight or a month in the service of the United States, whether in the army or navy, may go into those territories, may choose what is called a "section," which is 160 acres of land, being one-fourth of a square mile, and on payment of a fee of $10, which is equal to £2, English, he may apply and have this land conveyed to him for no other payment for five years. It cannot be alienated. He is not allowed to sell it. It remains in his possession, and at the end of five years, he having done to it what the Government requires—that is, settled upon it—and began cultivation and so forth, then the law gives him what is called a patent, but which is, in fact, what we call a Parliamentary title, and is absolute freehold for ever. [Cheers.] Now, it could not take more than £15 for a man to go from Birmingham to the territory where this land is to be disposed of. If he had not got any money by which he could take up the 160 acres, and begin to cultivate it, if he would engage himself to a neighboring farmer he would get, I believe, now about 20s. per week wages, besides his board and lodging, and if he worked as a laborer for two or three years he would be able to save a small sum sufficient for him to commence the cultivation of a portion of this farm, and he would be settled down there as a farmer and as a freeholder of his own. [Loud cheers.] Now, don't let me leave you with the idea that there is no rough and rugged career in this. But there is a good deal of that sort in this country now. [Cheers.] When a man looks upon those children that make even in the poorest house sometimes a gleam of joy—when he thinks what those boys and girls must be in this country, never to rise one step higher than that which he occupies now as an agricultural laborer, and then looks abroad and sees them not laborers in the sense that we use the word here—not tenants even, but freeholders and land-owners and farmers of their own property. Then, I say, that the temptation held out to men here to emigrate, if we knew all the facts, would be irresistible to hundreds and thousands who have never one thought of moving to another country. Even the agricultural laborer is not as he once was in some respects. There are some feeble efforts made to give him a little instruction. There are newspapers published at a price which was at one time deemed impossible. They find their way into the agricultural villages, and the laborers will gradually begin to open their eyes, and to see that a change of their position is not as impossible as they once thought it was. Now, what is it that the United States offer more? They offer social equality. They offer political equality. They offer to every child of every man into whose face I am new looking education from the very learning of his alphabet up to, if he has the capacity to travel so far, the highest knowledge of classics and mathematics which is offered to the best students in Colleges of this country; and all that without the payment of one single farthing except the general payment in which all the people participate in the school rate of the various States of the Union. Well, now, I ask you if I am wrong in saying to the rich and to the great what I believe, if they knew their own interest, it would be worth their while to try to make this country a more desirable one for the poor to live in. [Cheers.] If they disregard this great question, we, who are of the middle class, or not absolutely powerless class, shall have to decide between the claims of territorial magnates and the just rights of millions of our countrymen. [Cheers.] There are some men—I meet them now and then, and I wonder where they were born and why they came into the world—who regard these territorial magnates as idols before whom we are all to bow down in humble submission. I think travelers tell us that there is a tribe in Africa so given up to superstition that they fill their huts and hovels with so many idols that they do not leave room for their families. It may be so in this country—that we build up a system which is detrimental to our political freedom and is destructive of the best interests of the great mass of our producing and working classes. [Cheers.] Now am I the enemy of any class it I come forward to state facts like these, and to explain principles such as these? Shall we go groping continually in the dark and making no effort to strengthen our position? Don't suppose because I stand here I love to find fault with the laws of my country rather than to please them—that I am less English and less patriotic, or that I have less sympathy with my country and my countrymen, than other men have. [Cheers.] I want our country to be populous, to be powerful, and to be happy, but this can only be attained, as it never has been attained in any country, but by just laws, justly administered. I plead only for what I believe to be just. I wish to do wrong to no man. For twenty-five years I have stood before audiences, great meetings of my countrymen, pleading only for justice. [Loud cheers.] During that time, as you know, I have endured merciless taunts, and have passed through hurricanes of abuse. I need not tell you that my clients have not generally been the rich and the great, but rather the poor and the lowly [hear, hear;] they cannot give me place, and dignities and wealth, but their honorable service yields me that which is of a higher and more lasting value—the consciousness that I have been expounding and upholding laws which, though they were not given amid the thunders of Sinai, are not less the commandments of God, and not less intended to promote and secure the happiness of men." The Hon. gentleman resumed his seat amid great cheering.

A vote of thanks to Mr. SCHOLEFIELD and Mr. BRIGHT was subsequently carried, and the proceedings were brought to a termination at 10¼ o'clock.

THE REBELS IN ENGLAND.

BREACHES OF THE FOREIGN ENLISTMENT ACT.

From the European Times, Feb. 1.

At the Liverpool Police Court, on the 27th, Mr. John Jones, one of the principals in the firm of Jones, Hughan & Co., and John Williams, a clerk in the same firm, were charged with aiding in the shipment of men and arms on board the steamer Japan, afterward the Confederate war steamer Georgia. The facts attending this case are familiar, in consequence of the recent prosecution of Mr. HIGHAM, a member of the firm of Jones & Co. The officers and crew were shipped, some at Liverpool and others at Greenock, for a voyage to China and Singapore. They left Greenock in the Japan on an assumed trial trip, but they did not return, and went in company with a small steamer to Brest. Mate MR. Jones visited the Japan, and shortly afterward arms, ammunition and men were brought on board. Lieut. MAURY, a Confederate officer, then took command of the Japan, and informed the men that he was about to be engaged in the Confederate service. Lieut. MAURY present the men to join the ship, promising them £10 bounty and £4 10s. per month wages; and Mr. Jones, it was alleged, took part in getting the ship ready for sea. The men, for the most part, consented to join, and the ship was then named the Georgia, the Confederate flag was hoisted, and she commenced her voyage of devastation amongst the Federal marine. JOHN BALLEY said that in March last he went to Jones & Co.'s office, in Chapel-street, where he saw Mr. HIGHAM. He said he heard they wanted coopers for the Japan, and asked if he could be engaged. Mr. HIGHAM said he could go in the Japan, and asked if he could bring some men with him. After this, witness went with some other men to the Sailors' Home, where they saw Capt. HIGGINCOCK, the person who took them out of the Clyde, and signed articles for a voyage to Singapore and China. After signing articles at the Sailors' Home, witness went to JONES & Co.'s office, and obtained an advance note for £4 10s., in the presence of the defendant, HIGHAM. After witness had obtained his advance note, he endeavored to get it cashed in town, but could not succeed, and upon his explaining the matter at JONES' office, he was paid £2 5s. on account, and HIGHAM said he would give the remainder to his wife after he had gone to sea. When he left Liverpool, HIGHAM came down to see him and other men safely embarked for Greenock, and called over their names and number. When they arrived at Greenock they joined the steamer Japan, and the defendant, JONES, came on board with several other men. The Japan sailed from the Clyde, apparently on a trial trip, but she did not return, and sailed for the coast of France. When outside, a small steamer with Mr. JONES on board met the Japan, and accompanied her to Brest. When the Japan came to anchor off Brest, two small vessels came alongside with guns, ammunition, money, &c., which were transferred to the Japan. Mr. JONES superintended the proceedings. He met witness near the engine-house, and said it would be "a good thing for him if he went in the Japan. Capt. MAURY was also on board the Japan, at first in plain clothes, and afterward dressed in the uniform of the Confederate navy. Capt. MAURY said the ship was going to sail under another flag, and would be rechristened the Georgia. Mr. JONES was standing on the right-hand side of Capt. MAURY when he made this statement. Mr. JONES and Capt. MAURY said that any man who joined the ship would be paid £10 bounty, and £4 10s. per month wages. After this witness went into the cabin, and received £10 bounty from the purser. He gave the money to Mr. JONES, who promised to send it to his wife. JONES also promised to give witness' wife half her husband's pay during his absence. After making a voyage in the Georgia to the Cape of Good Hope, witness returned with the ship to Cherbourg, and obtained twenty-four hours' leave, and made the best of his way back to Liverpool. While in Liverpool he went to JONES & Co.'s office, and asked them to give him some money, as he was "hard up," but Mr. JONES refused, in the mode of speaking, that he had deserted the ship after joining her. The witness could not identify WILDING as having taken any part in the affair. THOMAS MATTHEWS, a seaman, who had shipped on board the Georgia, corroborated a portion of this evidence, but he failed also to identify WILDING. A seaman named BENJAMIN CONNOLY identified WILDING as the person who had paid him an advance on board the Havre steamer. At the conclusion of the case, Mr. JONES and WILDING were committed for trial at the Assizes, bail being accepted, JONES, himself in £800, and two sureties of £350 each; and WILDING, himself in £50, and two sureties of £25 each.

SALE OF A STEAM RAM.

From the North British Mail.

We learn that the formidable steam ram which is now approaching completion in the yard of Messrs. J. and G. THOMSON, of Glasgow, has been purchased for the Danish Government by a naval officer empowered to make such a bargain. This is the second armour-clad vessel which the Danes have obtained from the Clyde. The former one, a cupola ship, built according to the plan of Capt. COLES, of 1,500 tons burden, and having engines of 500-horse power, was commissioned from the Messrs. NAPIER, and now forms part of the Danish fleet under the command of Capt. ROLF DRAKE. The present is a much more powerful ship. Her burden is 3,600 tons; her engines are of 600-horse power; and she has a prow which it would be a very awkward thing for another vessel to come into collision with.

THE REBEL AND NATIONAL CRUISERS.

From the European Times, Jan. 30.

The Federal corvette St. Louis left the Tagus on the 25th, to intercept an English bark that had sailed a short time previously from Calais, with guns and stores for the Confederate cruiser Rappahannock, so say advices from Lisbon. What this bark is we have been unable to ascertain. Meanwhile the repairs of the Rappahannock are being pushed forward rapidly, an idea of which may be gathered from the fact that she is now ready to ship her guns and stores. The Confederate cruiser Florida is ready for sea at Brest, and her sailing is now only a question of time. The Georgia's repairs are also progressing favorably, and though not so much is known of the movements of the Florida, she still in a satisfactory condition. She is expected to be ready for sea in the course of next month. The Confederate sailing vessel Tuscaloosa is cruising off the Brazil coast, her sailing from St. Catharine's being only reported by last mail. The mail steamer Reiner, which arrived at Hong Kong on the 14th December, reported having spoken the Alabama on the 7th, off the Island of Pedro Blanca.

FRANCE.

THE MEXICAN EXPEDITION.

AN ELOQUENT SPEECH BY M. THIERS.

In yesterday's issue of the TIMES we gave a few extracts from the speech upon the Mexican expedition, delivered by M. THIERS, on the Corps Legislatif Jan. 26. Following is the speech in full:

The order of the day was the adjourned discussion on the Address.

On paragraph six, relating to Mexico, an amendment had been presented by M. JULES FAVRE and other members for the immediate return of the French troops.

M. THIERS.—Though the amendment I have signed is not under discussion, I rise now because I wish to discuss the general question, and, as I shall probably speak at some length, I hasten to address you before your attention has been fatigued by the length of the sitting. As to the amendments, I prefer that which will carry the truth to the foot of the throne in the most deferential and respectful form. [Approbation.] If we had only to express a judgment on the past, I should willingly imitate the conduct of a merchant who at once places certain doubtful operations to the account of profit and loss, that he may be no longer troubled with them; but he only does this with matters of which he already knows the full extent of the sacrifices they may involve. Unfortunately, we are not yet in that position with regard to Mexico. We are told that the expedition will cost us twenty millions per month, but it will cost us much more. We have 40,000 soldiers and 9,000 or 10,000 sailors. Money is required from home, and for what purpose? Why, to found a great empire in the New World. I am really confounded by the magnitude of such an enterprise, undertaken in the present state of the world, without any definite end or demonstrated utility. One of our young colleagues yesterday remarked that distant enterprises were never opposed in England; but the records of the British Parliament show how little ground there is for such an assertion. The enterprises of CLIVE and HASTINGS were strenuously opposed, and more recently the East India Company has been deprived of the government of India solely on account of its monopoly. Against the kingdom of Oude. Everything is discussed in England. Since we are permitted to lay the truth at the foot of the throne, I will avail myself of the right to examine as briefly as possible by what succession of ideas we have been led from the first act of defending our fellow-citizens in Mexico to the formidable enterprise of founding a monarchy in that country. I will also examine our prospects of success, and what advantages will accrue to France if we succeed. When our last difficulties commenced with Mexico what was the situation of that country? So far as we can ascertain from the imperfect statistics at our command, the Mexican population was about 8,000,000, of which 4,000,000 were Indians, patient and laborious, kept in a deplorable state of subjection, and 2,000,000 were of Spanish descent, the active and influential portion of the population. There were two parties in presence, which we will call the Conservatives and the Liberals, though they applied to each other the most opprobrious names, for you well know that little courtesy exists between contending parties. [Laughter.] The Conservative party, which is anxious to establish a monarchy in Mexico, has the clergy for allies. The clergy were wealthy, but not very wise; they took an active part in politics, and when the opposite party obtained the mastery much of the church property was sold, with the promise that the clergy should thenceforth be paid by the State; but this promise has not been always kept. The clergy now insist on having their property restored; and this demand is one of the greatest embarrassments of the Conservative party. Such was the state of affairs in Mexico when the struggle began between MIRAMON and JUAREZ, which, in January, 1861, ended in the flight of the former and the establishment of the latter at Mexico as head of the Government. It was at this same period that our differences with Mexico began. JUAREZ succeeded in forming a Moderate Government, and opposed an energetic resistance to the extremely advanced opinions which prevailed in the Congress. M. DE SALIGNY was then our Minister at Mexico, and he pressed on the Government certain claims made by our compatriots. A satisfactory convention was at last concluded, but the payments it stipulated were not made at the appointed time. M. DE SALIGNY was requested to grant further delay, to which he consented; but soon afterward the Congress decided that the settlement of foreign claims should be postponed for two years. M. DE SALIGNY expressed himself highly dissatisfied with this act of the Congress, but the Government promised that the vote should be rescinded, and represented that it had been under the necessity of paying the army employed in repressing the remnants of the conquered army, which, under the conduct of Gen. MIRAMON, one of our present allies, infested the high roads. The Government further assured him that, as soon as order was restored the stipulations of the convention should be fulfilled. M. DE SALIGNY declined the responsibility of a decision, and suspended his relations with the Mexican Government till he should receive further instructions from France. The English Minister, Mr. WYKE, who had far more considerable interests to defend, as the greater part of the Mexican debt is held in England, followed the example of the French Minister, and referred the matter to his Government. We certainly had right on our side, and, if we had to deal with a Government able but unwilling to pay, we should have been justified in taking compulsory measures; but, under the circumstances, I think patience would have been the wisest course. The best coercive measure that could have been selected would have been to take possession of the Custom-house at Vera Cruz and Tampico, and hold them until our demands were satisfied. Unfortunately, many respectable Mexicans of the Monarchical party had, meanwhile, come to Europe, where they represent Mexico as weary of agitation and ready to rise in favor of a monarchy if supported by the presence of a European flag. The Mexican emigrants were very coolly received in London; but in France they succeeded in persuading the Government that the presence of a European flag would cause a general rising, and that it would be easy to found a Government like that in Brazil. Thus, to the duty of protecting our own countrymen was added the honor of raising a nation from a state of misery, and founding a glorious empire. Unhappily, this illusion was accepted as a reality. At the same time, Spain had interrupted her relations with Mexico for reasons similar to those which had actuated France and England, and seemed for a moment to be daunted by the prospect of some great enterprise in Mexico. She accordingly joined the combined squadron of the French and English Governments, but was greatly disappointed on learning that England only proposed to seize Tampico and Vera Cruz; while France, though favorable to the monarchical ideas of Spain, objected to the selection of a Spanish Prince for Mexico. At last a convention was concluded between the three Powers, by which they engaged to take joint measures for obtaining satisfaction for their countrymen, but not to meddle with the oldest Government of the country. The Spanish force reached Vera Cruz on the 1st December, under Gen. PRIM, whom France had accepted as the Generalissimo of the expedition. The General soon found that the hope entertained in Europe that the Mexicans would rise in favor of a monarchy was a mere illusion, and Admiral JULIEN DE LA GRAVIERE, who commanded the French expedition, came to the same conclusion. Meanwhile, sickness began to prevail among the troops at Vera Cruz. The Spaniards had 2,000 sick, the English 150 out of 700; I cannot say how many we had, but it is certain that our brave sailors suffered considerably. The English, French and Spanish Commanders all agreed that it was impossible to remain longer at Vera Cruz, and they therefore decided to advance a few leagues inland to a healthier spot. They there drew up a proclamation to assure the population that they were not come either to conquer or overturn institutions, but only to enforce the payment of an indemnity which was stated at 17,000,000 of piasters (3l. each) for England, 9,000,000 of piasters for Spain, 4,000,000 for some other countries, and 12,000,000 for France. The total amounted to 41,000,000 of piasters (205,000,000f.,) a formidable sum compared with the Mexican Budget. Suddenly the Jecker demand of 25,000,000 of piasters was brought forward, of which I will only say that it was in very bad repute in Mexico. [Noise.] If any think otherwise they will have an opportunity of saying so.

M. ROUHER—No one said anything.

Mr. THIERS.—It was, I repeat, in very bad odor, and a resolution was taken to submit the matter to the European Governments. This was done, and the Commanders addressed an ultimatum to Mexico, neither precise nor peremptory, and not stating the amount of their claims. The Mexican Government replied that if the European Governments were come to obtain justice, it was ready to grant it, and that Gen. DORLADO should go to treat with the Plenipotentiaries. The latter, seeing the number of sick increasing at Vera Cruz, and being unable to get an answer from Europe in less than two months, arranged with Gen. DORLADO that the European troops should occupy the healthy tablelands of Orizaba, which were to be surrendered if the negotiations led to no favorable result. The Mexican flag was then hoisted at Vera Cruz by the side of the allied flags, but the allies kept possession of the Custom-house. Such was the celebrated Convention of Soledad, which we have regarded as dishonorable, but it certainly saved three small corps d'armée, which would otherwise have died of the yellow fever at Vera Cruz.

M. GRANIER DE CASSAGNAC.—But we should not have stayed there.

M. ROUHER.—We should have gone to Mexico.

M. A. JULIEN.—How could we, without horses to draw the cannon?

M. THIERS.—For my part I honor Admiral JULIEN DE LA GRAVIERE for concluding that convention. [Approbation.] If any persons are blameable, they are to be found among those who thought that the submission of Mexico was to be obtained with a few thousand men. We must be just to a brave officer. [Hear, hear.]

A Voice.—No one attacks him.

M. THIERS.—The cantonments of Orizaba, being once occupied, negotiations were adjourned to the 15th of April. When that intelligence reached Europe the three Governments were more persistent than ever in their respective ideas. The French Government had added 4,500 men to our forces in Mexico, commanded by Gen. LORENCEZ. The Mexican emigrants had been to Austria and obtained a sort of consent from the Archduke MAXIMILIAN; they then returned to Vera Cruz with Gen. ALMONTE, the chief promoter of the enterprise. The General, on his arrival at Vera Cruz, published everywhere that he had received from the French Government the mission of establishing the monarchical system in Mexico for the benefit of an Austrian Prince. The English and Spanish plenipotentiaries called upon him to declare, in the name of what Government he spoke. The position was becoming a false one. We had gone to Mexico to negotiate, as we said, and we had taken up a position at Orizaba as negotiators; and yet we had in our ranks an emigrant General who held the language above cited.

M. GLAIS-BIZOIN.—A Mexican Moreau!

M. THIERS.—Admiral JULIEN DE LA GRAVIERE, taking note of the observations of the other plenipotentiaries, declared frankly that he was going to evacuate the positions which he occupied in virtue of the Orizaba Convention. He was told that the evacuation would amount to a declaration of war, but he persisted. It became evident that the orders he had received from France were favorable to the ideas of Gen. ALMONTE. An armistice was asked for, and took place at Orizaba on April 18, and it regret that the French Government should not have thought fit to publish the minutes. The report, in fact, tells everything, and contains irrefutable testimony. M. DE SALIGNY does not dissemble that he will never again negotiate with JUAREZ, and that he thinks a monarchy ought to be substituted for the Republic. Admiral JULIEN DE LA GRAVIERE declares that his orders are precise; that Gen. ALMONTE has the confidence of the French Government, and cannot be called on to quit the ranks of the French army. Observe, however, gentlemen, that nobody wished him to be delivered up to the Mexicans; the only question was whether he ought to remain with us. The English and Spanish representatives thought it would be better to wait for Gen. DORLADO, the representative of JUAREZ, in the hope of an understanding, but our representatives absolutely refused. Admiral DE LA GRAVIERE abandoned the positions which had been assigned to him; the English and Spanish quitted Mexico, and we remained alone, with the evident intention of founding a monarchy for the profit of an Austrian Prince. You know, gentlemen, what followed. On the ground of some very slight indications of the Conservative party, we attacked Puebla. Our first attack did not succeed, and on the following day there was a general outcry against those who had so deceived us. We retired to Orizaba. It required a year to prepare a new expedition. But the brave Marshal FOREY repulsed the check we had met with, and we entered Mexico in triumph. Such is the exact truth. We broke with the Mexican Government because of the adjournment of the convention passed with JUAREZ. It is not the rupture itself that I blame; but I think we should have confined ourselves to occupying Tampico and Vera Cruz, and keeping them till our indemnities were paid. For that simple plan we have substituted that of a monarchy in Mexico. I now come to the practical question. We are in Mexico—how are we to get out of it? It is the duty of France to emerge from all difficult situations without detriment to her honor or interest; but, when these are safe, she should not be too intractable in a point of self-love. [Approbation.] And how could this have been done? On the day after our entry into Mexico we ought to have treated with JUAREZ. When we had certain knowledge that his party was the strongest. But what is Gen. BAZAINE now doing? He is trying to bring about a species of revolution, by separating himself from the party of the old régime and joining that of the new; he has deserted the Archbishop of Mexico, and sided with the so-called Liberal party in the question of national property. Now, as this party asks for nothing very extraordinary or barbarous, why not treat with it? Had we treated with JUAREZ, the question was settled. We might have withdrawn, leaving Tampico and Vera Cruz in our hands as a pledge. We should have had Gibraltar, Corfou or Algiers pellucous should be in our budget; we should not have 40,000 men beyond the sea. I know that it must be a disagreeable thing, after having announced to the world that we were going to found a monarchy in Mexico, to abandon the project and treat with JUAREZ. But that is what I call a necessary sacrifice of self-love. Let us compare dispassionately the two policies. What is the real nature of this project of founding at our own expense and on our own responsibility a monarchy in Mexico? When I think of it, gentlemen, my reason is well nigh confounded. The idea of opening Lodin to Heaven rocks I cannot seriously entertain for a moment. What is likely to happen? How long shall we be in Mexico? It is said that the foreign legion and the Mexican regiments will soon be organized, and that then we can withdraw. It was said also a year or two ago that we should find in Mexico resources for paying the French debt. But what is the reality? We entered Mexico on the 17th of May. Then we had to remain quiet during the rainy season, and it was only in the month of November that we began our operations to spread ourselves about—to make an electoral circuit, as it has been called, for the profit of Prince Maximilian. [Laughter.] This Prince will not be in Mexico before the month of April, and he will scarcely have time to receive the congratulations of his subjects before the rainy season. Of his receiving congratulations I make no doubt. What Prince ever found them wanting? But then the rain will set in, and he will find himself condemned to immobility till the months of September or October. You will, therefore, be obliged to protect him for some time, and I risk nothing in saying that you will have to stay in Mexico all through 1864. I shall thank Heaven if we can get out of it in 1865. More delay will be caused by the impossibility of withdrawing all our troops at once, and thus a complete extrication may be an affair of several years. Well, then, gentlemen, I ask you, is it prudent to have 40,000 men beyond the sea during so long a period, at a time when great events may occur, which, in the case, very free, may cause us to be so? [Applause from many parts.] At the same time we shall be forever paying. We shall pay our own army—that is natural; but we shall have to pay the Mexican army also. [Noise.] We shall not be able to do otherwise. The new sovereign will not have a piastre. The offices of the customs, almost the only sources of public revenue, are in the hands of the English and Spanish, who will not give them up till they have been paid. For my part I cannot understand how sensible men can persist in such a course. [Fresh interruption.] An honorable member, who makes light of geography, has said that we occupy seven-eighths of the country. I say that we do not occupy the twentieth part of it. Out of a population of eight millions, two only are subject to our have interesting particulars of our recent success at Smithfield, Va.

On Saturday evening last, the 30th ultimo, Col. Spear, commanding in Isle, received information that the gunboat Stars Temple was lying off the wharf at Cherry Grove, on Chuckatuck Creek, and that if we could reach her in time he could capture her, with all on board. Col. JORDAN sent an order to Capt. N. A. SCHUYLER, commanding SCHUYLER'S Battery, to proceed as rapidly as possible to the place designated, with his battery, supported by the companies of the 1st Regiment Eastern North Carolina infantry and a squad of the Seventh Confederate cavalry, twenty-one in number, under command of Lieut. [illegible]. Our men took up the line of march at 8 o'clock, and reached Cherry Grove at daybreak Sunday morning; alas! to their regret to find the Yankee vessel gone. Our troops halted there until noon, hoping she would again make her appearance, but, to their serious disappointment, she did not look up. They then took up the line of march for Scott's factory, seven miles from Cherry Grove, and in the direction of Smithfield, where they went to bivouac their men for the night. On the way they received information that the enemy were in force in Smithfield, having landed there from two transports and one gunboat, and were advancing from Smithfield to attack them. Our forces halted at Scott's factory, and there having fully ascertained the correctness of former reports, moved on very cautiously in the direction of Smithfield, and had not proceeded far before they encountered the enemy in some force, with the piece of artillery, which immediately opened on us. Our command formed in line of battle very rapidly, threw the artillery in position, and warm work on our part commenced. In thirty minutes they drove the enemy from his position, killing eighteen and wounding two men. Our loss was one (Lieutenant) mortally wounded, who died in about five hours afterward.

Our men returned to their camp, having marched thirty-five miles and had a brisk skirmish, inflicting serious damage upon the enemy, in the short space of twenty-nine hours. They had hardly got quiet before they received another order to return at once to Smithfield, and attack the enemy in his position at that place. They again took up their line of march at 9 o'clock in the morning, reaching Smithfield at half-past 11 o'clock of the same day. Our cavalry, under Capt. SCHUYLER, with a flag-of-truce, preceded the expedition, and a flag-of-truce, bearing a demand for the unconditional surrender of the forces and fortifications there. These was acted on, and Capt. SCHUYLER returned stating that, in his opinion, we should fire upon the Yankees if his demand was not complied with.

The command was formed, but a gunboat appearing in sight, it was determined to wait upon the arrival of the artillery, which had been left behind, and upon the arrival of the artillery we opened with the same, and upon the arrival of our second piece fire with two pieces of artillery, and the infantry and cavalry deployed right and left, and drove the enemy's flanks and rear. In twenty minutes the enemy were driven from the streets, and retreated to the river, having previously fired the bridge and fired into the creek. The gunboat, which had been firing upon our troops from the river, then moved up and opened her battery upon our artillery at a gallop until they reached the other end of the town, and run alongside the wharf, which Capt. SCHUYLER had opened fire upon her with his gun, pouring shell and grape into her broadside, with all his energy and skill, and the boat was totally disabled, and fastened down the river.

In this engagement the enemy lost about twenty-five killed and wounded. On our side two men were wounded. The artillery were at once dismounted, and the men, with all our arms and stores, burned, and our men marched out of town, and that same evening bivouacked.

From the Richmond Examiner, Feb. 8.

A report received Saturday at the War Department from Major-Gen. WISE, estimates, by the admission of prisoners, the enemy's loss in the fight at Kinston's Creek at fifteen hundred men. The Yankee papers make much lighter of the affair.

NEWSPAPERS AND THE CONSCRIPTION.

A MEMORIAL.

E. W. GIBBS, M. D., President of the Press Association, Confederate States Army, has addressed a memorial to the rebel Congress regarding the exemption of newspaper employes. He says:

"It is the report of the Chief of the Bureau of Conscription that the number of printers reported as exempt under the law includes all who are engaged in the job printing for the various governmental departments, and embraces also lithographic printers, who constitute a much larger proportion than those engaged on the daily press. In Columbia, S. C., for instance, there are two daily papers, one of which employed twelve conscripts, while in two other offices, employed in government work, there were Treasury, Quartermaster, Commissary, Surgeon-General's Department, etc.; there are thirty-four.

"There are now published in the Confederacy forty-seven daily papers, on which are employed, by returns made to date, an average of fifteen persons each, of which number fully one-half are non-conscripts.

"It is the question of value to the Government of competent writers of the departments be alone considered, it perhaps not to say that the number of men required to compositors to them, and then imperfectly, and often with extreme difficulty, would outweigh the importance of the daily press.

"We, in conclusion, would, on the part of the daily press, express the hope that your honorable body will enact no law which by indirection may abridge, fetter, or cripple, or mechanically, the freedom of the press, or in any way tend to check its unquestionable power, which is to promote and diffuse knowledge and protect the liberties of the people. The hope of our country civilization is in the protection of vital principles of government, freedom of speech, and freedom of the press, and I trust that such protection will be eminently characteristic of our Southern Confederacy."

ANOTHER PROTEST.

From the Richmond Enquirer, Feb. 8.

Why not exempt, by law, the editors and employes necessary to conduct the newspapers, and require no men but no more are employed than are absolutely required? Printers over 45 years of age are so very scarce that they cannot be employed or detailed. To rely upon old printers will be to stop the press. Old editors may be found, but old printers are played out.

We are under pecuniary obligation to thirty odd thousand subscribers for money advanced on their subscriptions. This money has been expended on paper absolutely necessary to printing of the paper. It is impossible for us to refund this money. If Congress prevents us from getting printers, it makes us defrauds our subscribers. Conscripts the editors, but exempt the printers. If thirty-five men are so badly needed by the army. These are, we understand, about thirty-five daily papers now published in the Confederacy. They do not average ten men to the paper. Three hundred and fifty or four hundred men, many of whom are exempt by physical disability, would be the extent of the recruits obtained by the destruction of all these newspapers.

Congress, we presume, did not, in the consequences, and exempt one editor and such employes as the editor shall report to be absolutely necessary to the publication of the paper.

HOW MANY IN RICHMOND.

From the Richmond Enquirer.

Richmond is the centre of intelligences, and there is, or ought to be, more writers for newspapers here than elsewhere. We can tell the Senate with accuracy how many persons are abstracted from the press in Richmond by the new law: 24. These are all the printers, mailing clerks, &c., of the five daily papers in Richmond subject to the operation of this law. For the valuable accession to the Confederate army, the Senate surrenders a free press, hitherto envied in England and in these Southern States, and supposed to have been specially guaranteed by the Confederate Constitution.

A "PEACE MEETING."

The Raleigh Confederate is indebted to a friend of that city for the following extract of a letter, giving the particulars of the "peace meeting" recently held in Greensboro', North Carolina:

GREENSBORO', Monday, Feb. 1, 1864.

The announcement of a peace meeting, to be held in this town, filled our loyal people with the gloomiest forebodings; but now, as it is over, we breathe more freely. The meeting was a disgrace to our State. Little more, but it broke up in a row, and the ignominious affair it was. Crowds of men came from the country "to see what Holden had to do," as they said. The three Holdens, R. P., B. F., C., and J., tried to get the meeting to order. The Court-house bell several times rung on its startling peals, and finally, at 12½ o'clock, the meeting began by one of the leaders trying to make a speech. But the people roared, hissed, groaned and applauded in such a manner, that every effort to a speech or to organize was utterly in vain. The disorganizations could not be equal. The crowd used all kinds of abusive and ridiculous epithets, rendering the proceedings of the speaker supremely ludicrous. Resolutions were introduced, and the traitors called upon to speak, and mocked out of the Court-house amid a chorus—the meeting having lasted only half an hour.

Back to the day one of the leaders was accosted on the street by a soldier, who asked "If he were one of the Holden men?" and upon his reply in the affirmative, gave him a good thrashing, and if left alone, would have knocked all his brains out of him; but he was soon interfered, and he was carried off by his friends, covered with blood.

Others were accosted in a manner that the others did not like to see or hear of, but they were smart enough to keep their mouths shut all the way. The whole town seems to be in a state of indignation at their course, and would like to see the town empty on Saturday morning, no doubt having the same end in Raleigh. Never, which demanded the attention of a people, their superiors, which demanded the attention of a people, their superiors, which demanded the attention of a people, their superiors

THE QUICKSILVER MINING COMPANY CASE.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE N. Y. TIMES.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday, Feb. 12.

THE GREAT QUICKSILVER CASE.

The triangular Quicksilver fight was begun to-day in the Supreme Court, and attracts great attention. It is the case of the Quicksilver Mining Company and the Berreyesa Mine against the Government and against each other. The case was called on the calendar, and set down for the 20th of this month. The question to be argued is whether the line between the Berreyesa and Panoche Ranches locates the Almaden Mine of California upon one or the other of these ranches, or whether the southern line of both these ranches lies north of the mine, leaving the mine on Government land. Several years ago this same case was up before the Supreme Court, and it was remanded to the District Court of California, with instructions to run the line in a certain manner, and that court, after evidence was produced, located the mine on the Berreyesa Ranch. The Quicksilver Mining Company owns nineteen twenty-fourths of this ranch, and if the last decision should be affirmed, the company will to that extent be the owners. Two of the remaining twenty-fourths belong to Mr. GARRISON, of New-York, and three twenty-fourths to some minor heirs. If the last decision should be reversed and the mine be located on the Panoche Ranch the Company will own the whole of it. If the court locates the southern line of the two ranches so as to leave the mine on the public land, then neither the Berreyesa owners nor the Quicksilver Mining Company will have any interest, but it will belong exclusively to the Government. The Attorney-General and Mr. WILES appear for the Government, Messrs. BLAKE, CUSHING and CURTIS, for the Quicksilver Company, and Mr. WILLIAMS, of California, for the Berreyesa interest.

THE DUTY ON FOREIGN WOOL.

A delegation of nine wool-growers from Pennsylvania, Ohio and Western Virginia is urging on the Committee of Ways and Means an increase of the duty on wool, known as Cape of Good Hope. Australian and Mestizo, to ten cents a pound. By frauds on the valuation, the duty under the present tariff is less than one cent a pound, and the revenues are defrauded of millions.

COLORED TROOPS IN MARYLAND.

Col. BOWMAN was relieved to-day from duty on Gen. CASEY'S Examining Board, and ordered to take the place of Gen. WILLIAM BIRNEY, mustering-in officer of negro troops in Maryland. The latter will go into the field with two colored regiments. Col. BOWMAN, one of the most energetic, yet conciliatory and discreet men in the army, will soon leave nothing of Slavery in Maryland but a tradition.

RATIONS FOR CONTRABANDS.

By order of the War Department the following is established as the ration for issue by the Subsistence Department to adult refugees and to adult colored persons, commonly called "contrabands," when they are not employed at labor by the Government, and who may have no means of subsisting themselves, viz.: ten ounces of pork or bacon, or one pound of fresh beef; one pound of corn meal five times a week; and one pound of flour or soft bread, or twelve ounces of hard bread, twice a week; and to every one hundred rations ten pounds of beans, peas, or hominy; eight pounds of sugar; two quarts of vinegar; eight ounces of adamantine or star candles; two pounds of soap; two pounds of salt; and fifteen pounds of potatoes, when practicable. To children under fourteen years of age, half rations will be issued; and to women and children, roasted rye coffee at the rate of ten pounds, or tea at the rate of fifteen ounces, to every one hundred rations.

PENSIONS TO BLACK TROOPS.

Senator CLARK, of New-Hampshire, will soon introduce a joint resolution declaring negro soldiers entitled to pensions the same as white troops.

DEATH OF PRISONERS AT ATLANTA.

The following list of deaths of Union prisoners that have died in the Prison Hospital, at Atlanta, Ga., during the month of December, has been received by the War Department:

Privates Lewis Row, Company H, Fifth Regulars; J. Pewitt, Company G, Seventy-seventh Pennsylvania; George Freed, Company D, Second Kentucky; Benjamin Stevens, Company C, Thirty-sixth Illinois; Thomas Owens, Company E, Sixteenth Regulars; E. Holtzer, Company E, Fourteenth Ohio; John Johnson, Company B, Fifteenth Wisconsin; M. V. Derline, Company B, Eighty-sixth Indiana; J. M. Benning, Company C, Forty-second Indiana; H. Sly, Company A, Twentieth Ohio; W. Haynes, Company K, Thirty-sixth Ohio; P. Williams, Company C, Eighteenth Kentucky; Sergt. J. Hudson, Company B, Ninety-third Ohio; Corp. James Dailey, Company B, Ninety-third Indiana.

All of the deaths were caused by gunshot wounds.

REVISION OF THE TAX BILL.

A Committee of Assessors, for some time past engaged in rewriting and revising the Tax Bill, to-day had their report to the Ways and Means Committee, recommending an increase of taxes generally, but suggesting that the taxes on manufactures shall remain as they are.

Col. JAMES B. SWAIN, of Scott's Nine Hundred, was to-day dismissed from the service by order of the President.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 12.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION.

The joint resolution recently introduced by Senator AUCHMUTY to provide for submitting to the several States an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, is in the following words:

ARTICLE ——. Nowhere within the limits of the United States, and each State and Territory thereof, shall persons be equal before the law, so that no person can hold another as a slave.

This joint resolution was, two days after it was introduced, reported by Senator SUMNER from the Committee on the Judiciary without amendment and adversely. Senator SUMNER had introduced a joint resolution for a similar object. But for this the resolution to amend the following joint resolution, reported and passed unanimously in Senate this session, in the House and Senate of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That, two-thirds of both Houses concurring, the following article be proposed to the Legislatures of the several States as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States, which when ratified by three-fourths of said Legislatures, shall be valid, to all intents and purposes, as part of the said Constitution, namely:

ARTICLE XIII, SECTION 1.—Neither Slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for a crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States or any place subject to their jurisdiction.

SECTION 2.—Congress shall have power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.

M'CLELLAN'S REPORT.

Mr. RIDDLE, of Delaware, (Dem.,) moved that 10,000 additional copies of the report of Gen. MCCLELLAN, without the accompanying maps and documents, be printed for the use of the Senate. Referred to the Printing Committee.

JURISDICTION OF THE SUPREME COURT.

On motion of Mr. LANE, of Indiana, (Union,) it was resolved that the Judiciary Committee be instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the present laws relative to the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court of the United States as shall confine the court to the consideration of questions of law alone, except as provided in the 10th section of the act to establish the Judicial Courts of the United States, passed Sept. 24, 1789, and to report by bill or otherwise.

THE DEFICIENCY BILL.

On motion of Mr. FESSENDEN, of Maine, (Union,) all prior orders were postponed, and the Senate proceeded to consider the House Deficiency Bill, as reported with amendments by the Senate Finance Committee.

The committee's amendments, with a few slight exceptions, was agreed to.

The Senate Committee's amendments strike out all the House's provisions for an increase of clerical force of the departments, and authorize the appointment in the various bureaus, for a term not exceeding one year after the close of the rebellion, of about one thousand clerks and employes of various grades.

The Senate's amendment appropriates the amount necessary to pay the salaries of the additional employees to June 30, 1864, and provides for the employment of females instead of males, at a salary not exceeding $600 per year. It also repeals the act limiting the office of Assistant Register of the Treasury to one year.

Certain amendments from the Naval Committee were concurred in. They appropriate $150,000 for repairs at the Norfolk Navy-yard; $144,000 for works at Port Royal, and $47,000 for repairs at Brooklyn Navy-yard.

Mr. FESSENDEN presented amendments, which were adopted, appropriating about $80,000 for deficiencies in the Quartermaster's, Ordnance and Commissary Departments. These amendments were based upon the estimates of the chiefs of these bureaux as transmitted with an explanatory letter from the Secretary of War.

Mr. WILSON moved an executive session.

Mr. FESSENDEN thought the bill could be passed to-day.

Various minor adjustments were offered, when the Senate adjourned until to-morrow.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 12.

PLATTSBURGH A PORT OF ENTRY.

Mr. WASHBURNE, of Illinois, (Union) from the Committee on Commerce, reported the Senate bill reestablishing the principal port of entry for the District of Champlain at Plattsburgh, New-York. Passed.

THE ENROLLMENT BILL.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the Senate Enrollment Bill, as amended by the Committee of the Whole on the State of the Union.

Mr. COX, of Ohio, (Dem.,) suggested the bill lie over until Monday, in order to give further time for its examination, the amendments being in such a confused state.

Mr. SCHENCK, of Ohio, (Union,) replied that the public exigences were so pressing that he could not give an hour. He then moved the "previous question," and explained the amendments and substitute, concluding by an appeal to the friends of the country to pass the bill, that the army might be recruited and the Government sustained.

Mr. HARDING, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) desired to address the House.

Mr. GARFIELD, of Ohio, (Union,) hoped that the gentleman (HARDING) should, by general consent, be allowed half an hour for that purpose.

Mr. SCHENCK objected to this proposition.

Opposition to further proceedings on the bill was manifested, when

Mr. ROGERS, of New-Jersey, (Dem.,) moved to reconsider the vote by which, in the earlier stage of the proceedings, the House had agreed to adjourn till Monday.

This motion was laid on the table, by a vote of 100 against 46.

Mr. HARDING moved that the House adjourn.

No quorum voting on this motion, the question was taken by yeas and nays, and determined in the negative by 19 against 96.

It was now half-past 4 o'clock.

Mr. CLAY, of Kentucky, (Union,) asked leave of absence until Monday, but afterwards withdrew his request.

Mr. WADSWORTH, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) moved that the bill and its amendments be laid on the table.

The motion was decided in the negative, by yeas 48, nays 87.

The House then proceeded to vote on the amendments to the Senate bill.

The House voted on the following House amendment:

"All able-bodied male persons of African descent, between the ages of 20 and 45 years, whether citizens or not, resident in the United States, shall be enrolled according to the provisions of the act to which this is a supplement, and form part of the national forces; and when a slave of a loyal citizen shall be drafted and mustered into the service of the United States, his master shall have a certificate thereof. The bounty of one hundred dollars, now payable by law for each drafted man, shall be paid to the person to whom such drafted person owes service or labor at the time of his muster into the service of the United States, on freeing the person. The Secretary of War shall appoint a commission charged to award a just compensation, not exceeding three hundred dollars, to each loyal person to whom the colored volunteer may owe service, who may volunteer into the service of the United States, payable out of the commutation money, upon the master freeing the slave."

The above was agreed to by a vote of 84 yeas against 69 nays, as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Allen, Allison, Anderson, Arnold, Ashley, Baldwin of Massachusetts, Baxter, Beaman, Blair of Western Virginia, Boutwell, Boyd, Brandegee, Brown of Western Virginia, Cobb, Cole, Cresswell, Davis of Maryland, Davis of New-York, Dawes, Deming, Dixon, Dodge, Eckley, Eliot, Farnsworth, Frank, Garfield, Gooch, Grinnell, Griswold, Hale, Higby, Hooper, Hotchkiss, Hubbard of Iowa, Hubbard of Connecticut, Julian, Kasson, Kelley, Kellogg of Michigan, Kellogg of New-York, Lean, Longyear, Marvin, McBride, McClurg, Menzies, Miller of New-York, Morrill, Morris of New-York, Amos Myers, Leonard Myers, Norton, Odell, O'Neill of Pennsylvania, Orth, Perham, Pike, Pomeroy, Randall, Kentucky, Rice, Massachusetts, Rice, Maine, Rollins, New Hampshire, Schenck, Scofield, Shannon, Sloan, Smithers, Smith, Spaulding, Staw, Stevens, Thayer, Thomas, Tracy, Upson, Van Valkenburg, Washburne, Illinois, Wash-burne, Massachusetts, Webster, Whaley, Wheeler, Williams, Wilder, Wilson, Windom, and Woodbridge.

NAYS.—Messrs. J. C. Allen, W. J. Allen, Ancona, Baldwin of Michigan, Biles, Brooks, Brown of Wisconsin, Chanler, Coffroth, Cox, Creswell, Dawson, Denison, Eden, Edgerton, Eldridge, Finck, Ganson, Grider, Hall, Harding, Harrington, Harris of Maryland, Herrick, Holman, Johnson of Ohio, Kalbfleisch, Kernan, Knapp, Law, Lazear, Leblond, Long, Mallory, Marcy, McDowell, McKinney, Miller of Pennsylvania, Morris of Ohio, Nelson, Noble, O'Neill of Ohio, Pendleton, Radford, Randall of Pennsylvania, Robinson, Rogers, Ross, Scott, Steele of New-York, Stiles, Strouse, Stuart, Sweat, Voorhees, Wadsworth, J. W. White, Winfield, Fernando Wood.

The bill, as passed, provides that the quota of each ward of a city, town, township, precinct, or election district, or of a county, where the same is divided into wards, towns, townships, precincts, or election districts, shall be as nearly as possible in proportion to the number of men residing therein, subject to draft, taking into account as far as practicable the number which has been previously furnished therefrom, and in ascertaining and filling such quota, there shall be taken into account the number of men who have heretofore entered the naval service of the United States, and whose names are borne upon the enrollment lists as already returned to the office of the Provost-marshal-General of the United States. Any person enrolled under the provisions of the Enrollment Act, who may hereafter be enrolled, may furnish at any time previous to the draft an acceptable substitute, who is not liable to draft, nor at the time in the military or naval service of the United States; and such person, so furnishing a substitute, shall be exempt from draft during the time for which such substitute shall be exempt from draft, not, however, exceeding the time for which such substitute shall have been accepted. But no private soldier, musician or non-commissioned officer, being actually in the military service of the United States, shall be procured or accepted as a substitute.

The Boards of Enrollment are to enroll all persons liable to draft, under the provisions of this act and of the Enrollment Act, whose names may have been omitted by the proper enrolling officer; all persons who shall arrive at the age of twenty years before the draft; all aliens who shall declare their intention to become citizens; all persons discharged from the military or naval service of the United States who have not been in such service two years during the present war; and all persons who have been exempted under the provisions of the second section of the act to which this act is a supplement, but who are not exempted by the provisions of this act; and the Boards of Enrollment shall release and discharge from the draft all persons who between the time of the enrollment and the draft shall have arrived at the age of forty-five years, and shall strike the names of such persons from the enrollment.

Any person drafted into the military service of the United States may, before the time fixed for his appearance for duty at the draft rendezvous, furnish an acceptable substitute, subject to such rules and regulations as may be prescribed by the Secretary of War. If such substitute is not liable to draft, the person furnishing him shall be exempt from draft during the time for which such substitute is not liable to draft, not exceeding the term for which he was drafted, and if such substitute is liable to draft, the name of the person furnishing him shall be liable to draft in filling future quotas. And if any drafted person shall hereafter pay money for the procuration of a substitute under the provisions of the act to which this is an amendment, such payment of money shall operate only to relieve such person from draft during the time for which the person was drafted, unless the names placed in the box be sooner exhausted, in which case the same shall be subject to the wheel.

Members of religious denominations who shall by oath or affirmation declare that they are conscientiously opposed to the bearing of arms, and who are prohibited from doing so by the rules and articles of faith and practice of said religious denomination, shall, when drafted into the military service, be considered non-combatants, and shall be assigned by the Secretary of War to duty in the hospitals or to the care of freedmen, or shall pay the sum of $300 to such person as the Secretary of War shall designate to receive it, to be applied to the benefit of sick and wounded soldiers, provided that no person shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of this section, unless his declaration of conscientious scruples against bearing arms shall be supported by satisfactory evidence that his deportment has been uniformly consistent with such declaration.

Any mariner or able seaman who shall be drafted, shall have the right within eight days after the notification of such draft to enlist in the naval service as a seaman. No pilot, engineer, master, or any acting master, acting engineer, or acting master's mate, having an appointment or acting appointment as such, and being actually in the naval service, shall be subject to military draft while holding such appointment. The following persons are exempted and excepted from enrollment and draft, namely, such as are rejected as physically or mentally unfit for the service; all persons actually in the military or naval service of the United States at the time of the draft, and all persons who have served in the military or naval service two years during the present war, and been honorably discharged therefrom; and no persons, but such as are herein excepted, shall be exempt.

The two classes heretofore provided for enrollment are consolidated. In all cases where colored persons have been heretofore enlisted in the military service of the United States, all the provisions of this act, so far as the payment of bounty and compensation are provided, shall be equally applicable as well as to those who may be hereafter recruited.

The bill also contains the section for enrolling all the able-bodied males of African descent, &c., upon which a separate vote was taken before the bill was passed.

At 6¼ o'clock the House adjourned until Monday.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

FORTRESS MONROE, Thursday, Feb. 11.

The schooner G. M. Partridge, Capt. L. P. DOWE, belonging to Orlando, Me., from Baltimore, bound to Belfast, Me., is ashore near Cape Henry. She will come off if the weather remains favorable.

A party of guerrillas came to Back River, about three miles from Camp Hamilton, last night, and robbed a store belonging to WILLIAM WALLACE, of its contents, consisting of $600 in money, and goods worth $700. Mr. WALLACE was there at the time, and would have been carried off but for the illness of his wife. The guerrillas came across York River, from Matthews County.

THREATENING TO BLOW UP A HOUSE AND TO MURDER.—In the Hudson County Court, yesterday, WILLIAM KINNEY was placed on trial, under an indictment for sending an anonymous letter to DAVID H. BAKER, Superintendent of the New-Jersey Railroad shop. It appears that KINNEY, who was employed in the shop, demanded an increase of wages, and also the payment of a certain amount for over-work, whichhe claimed that BAKER had received and withheld from him. This was refused, when KINNEY left, and subsequently Mr. BAKER received an anonymous letter purporting to come from strikers in New-York, threatening that if he did not pay the money withheld from the men within three days, they would "blow up his house about his ears," and if he escaped the ruins he would "be subject to the revolver." KINNEY'S handwriting was identified by two witnesses. The case was given to the jury, and, as the court adjourned until Monday, they were instructed to bring in a sealed verdict.

ANOTHER EPISCOPAL CHURCH.—Our readers will find among our "Religious Notices" the announcement of a new Episcopal congregation, to be gathered on Murray Hill. Rev. STEPHEN H. TYNG, Jr., commences to-morrow services in the Chapel of Rutgers Institute, Fifth-avenue and Forty-second-street, with a view to this result. He will preach himself to-morrow and every succeeding Sunday afternoon. There is everything to encourage those who are the originators of the plan. Rev. Dr. SWINE, the Rector of the Ascension, is engaged with Mr. TYNG in the movement, and that church was originally a daughter of the mother church of the City, and of a new one which will in time be established in the upper wards, bring many people, &c.

NEWS FROM TENNESSEE.

The Situation in East Tennessee—Knoxville Safe—Admire at Chattanooga—Position of the Rebels—Fine Condition of Grant's Army—Veterans Returning to the Field.

Special Dispatch to the Cincinnati Gazette.

NASHVILLE, Wednesday, Feb. 10.

Persons from Knoxville report communication with Cumberland Gap cut off. Tazewell is said to be in the possession of the enemy. The garrison retreated with four pieces of artillery to Cumberland Gap. Nearly all East Tennessee is in the possession of the rebels. This need elicit no apprehension; it would take 60,000 men to capture Knoxville and our army. No siege will be attempted. Gen. GRANT can reinforce the garrison with 20,000 men in fifty hours. One division of the Army of the Cumberland is within sound of the cannon of Knoxville garrison. Another division could march to its relief in twenty-four hours. The river between Chattanooga and Loudon is low; boats have stuck often. The distance between Chattanooga and Knoxville has been made in twenty-four hours and a half. The railroad will be in running order in a few days. The distance is ninety miles between Chattanooga and Knoxville. The only serious break will be Tunnel Bridge at Loudon, a length of 1,700 feet, which will be built in ninety days.

Slight skirmishes take place in the vicinity of Knoxville daily. The smallpox prevails to an alarming extent at Knoxville. Knoxville's eligibility as a military post of defence is great. Its forts are only second to those at Murfreesboro in strength and finish. Gen. SHERMAN commands at Loudon. The Army of the Cumberland is in magnificent condition. The troops now draw full rations. Chattanooga and its approaches are extensively fortified. No force can attempt a flank movement without inviting immediate ruin. The reports of the evacuation of Dalton, Ringgold and Tunnel Hill are errors. This arose from the fact that a flag of truce escort under Col. BURKE took the wrong road and passed completely around the two latter places. Although it is said BURKE went to Dalton, he says he did not. He claims to have gone within a mile and a half of Dalton.

Some of JOHNSTON'S forces, however, have been sent away. Nearly all the Tennessee brigades, and at least two-thirds of the Kentucky regiments, have been sent South, under FRANK CHESATNAM, ostensibly to assist in holding Mobile, and act as partners of the new troops under Bishop POLK, at Demopolis, but in reality to prevent their desertion. The Tennesseans leave the rebel army in great numbers. Neither North Alabamians nor Kentuckians seem so loyally inclined as the Tennesseans.

CHATNAUGA commands at Tunnel Hill.

Most of the rebel army is at Dalton, with JOHNSTON'S Headquarters at Atlanta. HARDEE has gone to Alabama. About three divisions have left JOHNSTON. LONGSTREET has certainly been the recipient of large additions from the rebel armies in Virginia and North and South Carolina. Gen. GRANT has the bogus Confederacy fenced in with Yankee troops and national cannon from Florence, Ala., to Knoxville, Tenn.

The amnesty proclamation is already reducing the rebel ranks.

Some little time will transpire yet before this army can move complete. When it does there will be a crash.

Two veteran regiments have returned to the field. The Sixty-sixth Ohio is 103 stronger than it went away, and the Third Wisconsin has returned full.

AARON A. HALL, recently with the Connecticut Cavalry at Baltimore, was arrested at Wallingford, this morning, by Major MERCY of the Connecticut Cavalry, charged with circulating counterfeit national bills and currency. The Kansas Senatorship.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 12.

There seems to be no difference of opinion among the Senators that the recent election of a Senator by the Kansas Legislature was premature, and therefore invalid. A resolution will shortly be introduced in the Senate defining the constitutional provision with reference to such elections.

From California.

SAN FRANCISCO, Thursday, Feb. 11.

The Senate yesterday decided against the repeal of the Specie Contract Act by a vote of 15 ayes against 20 nays. There is general rejoicing over the result. The masses of the people are unalterably determined to transact their business on this coast on a basis of metallic currency.

The Malden Murder.

BOSTON, Friday, Feb. 12.

The Grand Jury have found an indictment against GREER, the late Malden Postmaster, for the murder of FRANK G. CONVERSE, and the trial will probably take place in April.

The Sentence of Capt. Samuel Black.

The following is the official sentence in the case of Capt. SAMUEL BLACK, A. Q. M. U. S. Volunteers, who was tried and convicted upon charges of dishonesty:

"To be dismissed the service of the United States, with loss of all pay and allowances due or to become due, to pay a fine of $10,000, and to be imprisoned at such place as the Commanding General of this department may designate, for the period of two years—the imprisonment to date from the 20th day of September, 1863, the day of his arrest in this case. If, at the expiration of two years from said date, said fine is not paid, then to be confined until the same is fully paid, dealing said fine after the expiration of the said two years at the rate of $2 per day."

The proceedings, findings and sentence in the foregoing case are approved and confirmed. Capt. SAMUEL BLACK, A. Q. M., United States Volunteers, is hereby ordered to be an officer in the service of the United States, and delivered to the civil authorities, upon proper proofs, and detailed, into the custody of the military Commander at Louisville, Ky., to be confined in the military prison of that place, to serve out the term of his sentence. The fine of $10,000 will be paid to the Judge Advocate of the Department, who, on receiving the funds, will immediately account for the same to the Treasurer of the United States.

FROM MISSISSIPPI.

Natchez and its Defenses—Escorting Cotton—Troubles of Guerrillas—Loyalty Reviving.

Correspondence of the St. Louis Republican.

NATCHEZ, Monday, Jan. 25, 1864.

Important military changes are being made here as well as at other points up and down the river. The weather, which is so much in the way of army movements above, is here as fine as could be desired. Gen. GRAHAM, with a force, has gone up stream. The place is now so well fortified and protected by gunboats that there is no reasonable danger of attack. Besides, Natchez is much the most pleasant place for residence between Cairo and New-Orleans, not having been disturbed by the presence of any large force under either National or Confederate rule.

I should mention that on Saturday an escort of some forty mounted infantry was sent out to guard a cotton train into town, under a mischievous ruling of this new order, which requires military and naval commanders to lend all proper facilities to persons purchasing cotton beyond the lines. Their numbers were, it appears, counted by the rebels, and a very much larger force got between them and the city, and the 40 were obliged to fight through. Nineteen came in yesterday, who reported their comrades captured, and the Captain commanding badly wounded.

Last night again a second and larger expedition was sent out, comprised of negro cavalry from Col. FARNSWORTH'S brigade, together with four companies of mounted infantry, the whole under Col. KEMP, who, it is now reported, found the enemy in greater strength than he had expected, and is now falling back. This last expedition was probably in the hope that they might be able to retake the captured party of the previous day. It appears, indeed, that there is a large Confederate force in the neighborhood of Fort Gibson, for a scouting party of our cavalry, sent by Gen. McPHERSON from Grand Gulf, came upon them, and, after a severe engagement, were obliged to fall back. The rebels had six guns with them, and undoubtedly means mischief in the passing boats. There is, however, a confidence in many minds that before many days these bodies will be falling back, and that the whole State of Mississippi will be as free from rebels as is Tennessee (or Missouri. It is certain that some other work will be provided for their batteries than the murderous one of firing into boats.

The most gratifying condition of returning loyalty is to be seen in Louisiana. The Provost-Marshal of Natchez is daily administering the new amnesty oath to prominent persons from the west side. There is a common expression among them that if the pardon had been more general many would more readily have accepted it on account of the supposed heinousness in deserting their homes to a traitor's fate. Many of the deserters who come in from Arkansas and West Louisiana enlist in our armies. Of course, it must be supposed that some selfishness is mixed up with the motives which prompt many of these restored loyalists. The Government has generously restored to them their property, (except slaves,) which have now an enhanced value. They are permitted to hire the freedmen at the same rates as all others, and will not be allowed to buy supplies or sell any cotton unless both their obligations to the Government and to the laborers are complied with.

The United States Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 12.

The case of the California Quicksilver Mining Company came up in the Supreme Court to-day, and was set for a hearing on the 20th inst. The mines are now worked on a contract to pay the Government one-third of the proceeds, and in the event of a decision in favor of the United States, the company is to give peaceable possession.

Numbers 141 and 231 and 232, the patent "hat body" case, HENRY S. DUNN and others against FRANK DUERYEA and others, is again before the Supreme Court to-day, and will be continued, probably, throughout all of next week. It excites much interest, in consequence of the heavy pecuniary interests involved. The counsel have models and full-sized patterns of the machinery exposed to view and for explanation. They have also on hand a number of boxes, the contents of which have not yet been produced, but which will be brought out as the case progresses.

The Ship Hartaban.

OBITUARY.

DECEASE OF COMMODORE MCCLUNEY.—Commodore WILLIAM J. MCCLUNEY, of the U. S. Navy, died at his residence, No. 23 Smith-street, Brooklyn, on the 11th instant, in the 68th year of his age. The deceased belonged to the old school of naval heroes, who participated in the brilliant engagements with the British in the war of 1812. He entered the navy on the 1st of January of that year, (1812,) and took his first cruise in the United States sloop-of-war Wasp as midshipman, and participated in the fight between that vessel and H. B. M. sloop Frolic, commanded by the late Commodore JONES, in which the latter was captured. Both vessels were subsequently recaptured by H. B. M. ship Poictiers, and carried into Bermuda as prisoners of war. The officers and crew were released by cartel in November following. In 1813 he was appointed by the U. S. authorities to the frigate Macedonian. Shortly after they went to Lake Ontario, where the Commodore remained until the close of the war. He afterward commanded a schooner on the Southern Station, and then became attached to the U. S. brig Saratoga as Acting Lieutenant. In 1821, he commanded the brig Dolphin, and then the Franklin, 74, in the Pacific Ocean, where he remained for three years and four months. In 1828, he was placed in command of the frigate Constitution (the old Ironsides) on the West India Station. In 1835-36 he commanded the sloops Fairfield, Lexington and Warren in the Mediterranean. During the Mexican war he commanded the U. S. sloop-of-war John Adams and participated in the engagements with the Mexicans under Gen. PARES until the ending of hostilities. In 1852, he was ordered to the steam frigate Mississippi, as flag-officer, but on the eve of sailing was transferred to the command of the frigate Potomac, which vessel was fitted out at Norfolk, Va., and sailed for Japan in February, 1853. He remained absent on this cruise for three years, being attached to the expedition of Commodore PERRY. His last cruise was as Commander of the Home Squadron, in which capacity he received the Japanese Ambassadors on his flagship, the Roanoke, at Annapolis, and brought them to this country. By the act of Congress, since passed, he was retired from active service, and took up his residence in this city. The disease of which he died was contracted during the Mexican war, but he was enabled to remain at the post of duty until within the past eight years, since which time he had been an invalid. A wife and one daughter remain to mourn his loss. The funeral will take place from his late residence, No. 23 Smith-street, on Monday, 15th inst., at 3½ o'clock, P. M.

HAD CONDITION OF EAST RIVER DOCKS.—The dilapidated condition of many of the East River docks has become a matter of general comment. For several years the piers about the City have attracted the attention of our shipping merchants, and efforts have been made to have them repaired. The almost unprecedented dew of drift on the this Winter has rendered some of the docks along the East River a nuisance to their lessees, and at least ten of them have been almost entirely carried away. What provision will be made for the protection of vessels obliged to discharge cargoes in some of the more exposed slips is not known, but it is evident there must be something done very soon to repair our East River docks, or many of our shipping merchants will find their vessels elsewhere; in fact Boston has already been selected by several foreign ship owners as a safer place for their vessels than this City.

TESTIMONIAL.—Among the passengers who go out in the Nassau steamer to-day to Mr. JOHN B. GOUGH, Boston, of Antwerp, are twenty several boxes to the West Indies for the benefit of his health.

DEPARTMENT OF THE SOUTH.

Reoccupation of Jacksonville, Fla., by Our Troops.

Destruction of a Blockade-Runner at Charleston.

Three Deserters at Fernandina to be Shot.

AFFAIRS AT SAVANNAH.

The U. S. transport Fulton, Capt. WOTTON, from Port Royal Feb. 9, arrived at this port yesterday, consigned to the U. S. Quartermaster. Through the kindness of her purser, T. MCMANUS, Esq., we are indebted for the delivery of our Correspondence and the following interesting information:

A formidable expedition left Port Royal on the 5th inst., under command of Gen. SEYMOUR, the destination of which was Jacksonville, Fla. The expedition consisted of three brigades, with one light battery.

On the morning of the 9th, the transport Sonora arrived from Jacksonville, reporting that the expedition had landed on Monday morning, the 8th, and that the second officer of the transport, Gen. SEYMOUR, while engaged in taking the vessel's lines on shore to make her fast, was slightly wounded in the arm by one of the rebel pickets. No other casualties occurred. The expedition, it is reported, will push on to Tallahassie.

Maj.-Gen. Q. A. GILLMORE and staff embarked during day morning, 7th, in the transport Connecticut, to join the expedition.

The British ship-of-war Petrel arrived off Charleston Bar on the evening of Friday, the 5th inst., with time to communicate with the British Consul in Savannah, Ga. She also brought extensive dispatches to J. P. BENJAMIN, rebel Secretary of State. Blockade-runners were sent to Admiral DAHLGREN, with our vessel at Port Royal, to get permission to enter the harbor. The request was not granted, and the vessel put to sea at once.

The Savannah Republican of Feb. 1 gives a glowing account of matters in the Confederacy. The Commissary of Subsistence states that the amount of provisions now on hand will not last over a month. About two columns are devoted to advertisements for deserters.

Three deserters from the Ninety-Seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers attempted an escape from Fernandina. They passed the pickets, and on arriving at the river they met a man with a boat, and engaged him to row them over. It was nearly morning on starting, and a dense fog arose, when the boatman, (Mr. HARRIS, brother of the editor of the Fernandina Crisis,) instead of taking them to rebellious Georgia, put them in our shores, where they were handed over to our guard, much to their discomfiture. They were tried by court-martial, and sentenced to be shot. The sentence was approved by Gen. GILLMORE, and they will be shot on Tuesday, 9th inst., at Fernandina.

Admiral DAHLGREN has changed his flagship from the Philadelphia to the Scout Carolina.

Three United States vessels-of-war have sailed for Jacksonville.

OUR HILTON HEAD CORRESPONDENCE.

HILTON HEAD, S. C., Friday, Feb. 5, 1864.

At daylight, on Tuesday morning last, a long white rakish-looking steamer was observed aground on the bar off Sullivan's Island. She was a blockade-runner, and had attempted to pass the fleet and go into Charleston during the night. The position of our vessels is and near the channel compelled her to hug the shore, which resulted in her getting aground. Four monitors were immediately ordered to her and fire upon her. The land batteries of Commodore Pelot also opened with their pieces, so that in a few hours time the enemy's vessel was completely riddled and sunk. Her bow was shot off, and her wheels hence knocked into slivers. She has two smokes stacks, and is of about 200 tons burden. She lies off the bar a little to the right of the Moultrie House. Her cargo consists chiefly of iron plates and other metal for the construction of iron-clads.

On Wednesday night an officer embarked in a boat at Fort Strong, and was towed over to the wreck.

A heavy fire from the fleet and shore guns kept up day and night prevents the rebels from removing any of the cargo.

The vessel carried four guns.

The enemy's batteries in the various forts replied with great vigor to our fire on Monday, since that time, they have been firing only at intervals.

An expedition is in readiness to sail from Hilton Head. It will gain a southerly direction.

A refugee from Savannah recently arrived at this place. He brings important information. Gen. HARDEE has removed his headquarters from Charleston to Savannah, in anticipation of an attack in the vicinity of the STATE SOVEREIGNTY.

Considered Historically, Conventionally and Geographically.

NO. II.

A nation, or people, is a political whole, acknowledging no outward control but God, and having no inward constraint but its own self-developing organic law.

A true nation must have these six characteristics:

First—It is severed, as a whole, from all other political wholes.

Second—It severs its parts from all other wholes or parts, so that they can maintain no relations to them except through the embracing totality.

Third—It maintains a relation to its own parts, which cannot be claimed by or toward no other whole or parts.

Fourth—It has one life or citizenship; or, which is the same thing, the individual who is a citizen in any one part, is, by that very fact, a citizen in every other part.

Fifth—It has an organic law which is the supreme law of the land; that is, the law everywhere, any law of any part to the contrary notwithstanding.

Sixth—It has an administrative power which is made to bear upon every part, and every individual citizen of every part, in enforcing obedience to this organic law, and all other laws made in pursuance thereof; this administrative power being executive, legislative, judicial, either separate or blended, held either by one man, or by a body or bodies of men, all representative of the one national will as it expresses itself organically through these one or more departments.

These elements every true nation must possess, and that which possesses them is, thereby, a nation. They may be confused or separate; they may be so arranged as to produce a feeble or a despotic administration, either as regards its inward or its outward action; but they are all there essentially—constitutive of nationality, and inseparable from it. They belong to every nation, irrespective of its form. Be it monarchy, absolute or limited, the limit is only on the administrative power, not on the nation itself; be it aristocracy or democracy, be it republican, oligarchical, feudal, federal, consolidated—these are but forms of the organic law, varied expressions of the one national will, whether slow or fast, conservative or progressive, enlightened or ignorant, they affect not the idea of nationality and the essential element that lies beneath it. Russia is a national will, very ignorant it may be, very inflexible, very slow moving, because it knows so little of itself and of its strength, but, notwithstanding, as fixed a national will as England or the United States.

Again, a nation never creates itself. It is a whole, in distinction from a mere sum or aggregate, and, as such, is the work of God and history, or rather, of God working in history. This impossibility of self-creation is from the very nature of things, since a whole cannot be made of parts without something previously determining that whole of which they are to be the parts. Not as a mere sum or aggregate. That may be made by the coming together of independent parts, still remaining independent after the aggregation, and having no other union than that of contiguity—at best more a mere alliance, arbitrary in its inception, in its continuance and in its dissolution.

Thus there may be leagues, partnerships, alliances offensive and defensive, or any gathering of separate nationalities for greater or lesser purposes. The European Congresses are of this kind; but the parties to such leagues, or alliances, may lose our length their autocratic relations to each other, or to other nationalities outside of the Congress. The reason is, there is no organic relation, no organic unity, or wholeness. This is not a mere subtlety, but a most important and practical distinction, having immense practical consequences, not only on science, but on politics and philosophy; and therefore we dwell upon it, dry and abstract as it may seem. The parts are before the all regarded as a sum or aggregate mass, and, therefore, of it. On the other hand, a true whole is before its parts, and determinative of them; that is, the whole of which they are to be parts is determined by a prior organizing and integrating power, making such union of the constituent parts the effect and not the cause of the wholeness. This prior power may be the inward want which is itself organic, or the outward movement of history, or geographical position, or ethnological relation, or all these combined. Thus it is, and thus it must be, when there is to be a true organic constitution, not only vitally binding together the inward parts, so that the life that is in any one part may permeate every other, but also separating the one national body whose constitution it is, from every other national body resembling it. Then there is a true whole, in distinction from a mere sum of quantity, or sum, as ARISTOTLE has well shown the difference in his Metaphysics as well as in his Politics. There may be conventionalities within such a whole; there may be regulative of the relations of the parts to each other, and to the totality; but this is the very working of the organic power. These conventionalities do not create the whole with its wholeness, but are created by it, and called out by it. They would have no existence if it did not precede both as their fact and formative idea. They grow out of the previous nationality; they are its development, its mode of putting forth the six essential elements already mentioned. They do not originate the national life, however much they may shape or modify its vitality. To sum it all up in the briefest style, they do not make the nation, but the nation makes them. The nation is and must be before its constitution; we mean its outward conventional constitution, not that historical, organizing, constitutive force of which the conventional symbol is but the expression and the representative.

The national which thus born becomes one of "the powers ordained of God," and takes its place among similar powers that He hath constituted on the earth. It is simply a modern exemplification of that ancient prerogative which Deity challenges to himself as far back as Deuteronomy xxxii.—"When the Most High divided to the nations their inheritance, when he separated the sons of Adam;" and which is confirmed in the inspired declaration of the Apostle, Acts xvii. 26: "He hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth, having determined their foreappointed times, and the bounds of their habitation." As such "power ordained of God," it is an intelligence and a force; it has a moral character and an responsibility. Thus both it is, in some things, left to itself like any other moral agent. The power it shall take, an hereditary, democratic, republican, constitutional or colonial (for these may be a question for it every closest thing with whom "sovereignty of nations,") is afterward, in good time, for its own choosing wisdom, although, in the end, it is to be much affected by the same outward influences that gave it its idiosyncrasy and geographical totality.

In the light of these first truths let us view our own condition as a people. We are not fighting shadows. It has been denied that we are a true nation. Very able men among ourselves have maintained this strange assertion. English and French writers, taking their lead from them, have lately carried on the argument in the same direction. There has long existed among our political parties, a doctrine of "State rights" and "State sovereignty," utterly at war with any true nationality as represented by the Government at Washington. More than anything else, more even than Slavery, has this doctrine, as promulgated by the Virginia school and maintained by Northern partisans, been the source of our present troubles. Slavery could have been managed, and in time healed, had it not been for this. If any think that we are underrating what is now so universally regarded as our prime evil, it may be admitted that Slavery is the material cause, if we may be allowed to use scholastic language. It is the cause ex quo; but this persistent doctrine of State Sovereignty is both the formal and the efficient cause of our sad condition. It is the idea and the power of the rebellion. Men are still holding it at the North and waiting for the opportunity to reassert it with tenfold mischievousness.

There is one consideration, however, that must come home to every plain and practical man. If this doctrine be true, our eighty years' history has been one of outrageous usurpation, and still more outrageous folly. Every fortress built on the Atlantic or the Gulf, every expense incurred for the national capital, all money paid for the acquisition of foreign territory, every accumulation of public property, was simply an exhibition of such fatuity. It was like throwing millions into a vulgar raffle, to be grabbed by any of the ruffian parties who might cry, we dissolve the partnership, and then depart with such portion of the assets as might be nearest to their hands. It is not a mere fancy picture: this was just what Virginia did at Norfolk and Harper's Ferry, and what she would have done at Fort Monroe. It was just what South Carolina did at Sumter, and what Louisiana did with the money and Custom-house at New-Orleans, and what ALEXANDER STEPHENS said Maryland would have done, and ought to have done, with the buildings and property in the District of Columbia, and the National capital. And all this would have been right if the doctrine be true—a seeming right, at least, on the ruffian's code, and having something of a plea in the fact that the whole miserable concern was itself a falsehood, a cheat, a political swindle, where each party could fairly say, "take first, and settle afterward," without any "higher law" of God or man to overrule in such a scramble.

This is what might be called an à posteriori argument—somewhat plainer, perhaps, than what was styled the à priori view. The present article, however, is in danger of being too long. We would, therefore, break off somewhat abruptly, and ask the reader's attention to the resumption of this more common-sense view in another communication.

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Tuesday, Feb. 9, 1864.

The recent reconnoissance in force, while like all human affairs, was not so fully successful as hoped for by many, nevertheless was a substantial success. While it warned the enemy that at any moment the weather is suitable, this army is ready in all respects to assume offensive operations, it at the same time caused them to withdraw forces known to have been sent to assist Rosecrans in Western Virginia. It also caused the return of troops dispatched from Lee's army to defend Richmond against a threatened attack by Gen. BUTLER, and prevented the possibility of reinforcing Longstreet. More than all this, the exact position of LEE'S army, and much other important information, was obtained. Since our troops have been withdrawn, the enemy are again using the shovel on the opposite bank of the Rapidan, digging rifle-pits and strengthening their works, particularly at Morton's Ford, where a portion of the Third Corps crossed.

I have heretofore given the principal events of this movement, but some additional particulars in regard to the affair at Morton's Ford will be of interest. The Second Brigade of the Third Division of the Second Corps bore the brunt of the whole affair. This brigade was led across Saturday forenoon by Gens. HAYES and OWENS in person—the first-named commanding the division and the latter the brigade. Gen. HAYES gallantly set an example for his troops to follow, by dismounting and wading the stream first. The current was swift, the water deep and cold, so that the task was no very agreeable one. Two hundred men, under the immediate command of Capt. SEABURY, of Gen. OWENS' Staff, made the first crossing, under the cover of AMMEN'S Rhode Island Artillery, as heretofore stated. In a brief space of time the whole brigade had crossed, and taken position under the friendly cover of a rise of ground at the left of the road. Skirmishers were advanced, and a scattering fire was kept up nearly all day without serious loss on either side.

Toward 6 o'clock, P. M., it was evident that the enemy's force had been greatly increased, several brigades having been brought up to assist the one brigade there in the morning. Thus reinforced, the enemy made a sudden dash upon the right centre of our line, and succeeded in obtaining possession, and holding for a time a large house, outbuildings and fences, owned by Dr. MOSSER, after whom the ford is called. At this moment the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth and One Hundred and Twenty-sixth New-York held the advanced skirmish-line, supported by the Thirty-ninth New-York, Tenth New-York, First Delaware, One Hundred and Eighth New-York and Fourteenth Connecticut. The One Hundred and Twenty-sixth was drawn in, and the Thirty-ninth New-York advanced under a galling fire, closely followed on the right by the Fourteenth Connecticut. These regiments being composed largely of new men, when brought under the flank fire from the enemy about Dr. MOSSER's house, were thrown into some confusion, particularly the latter regiment, which accounts for their great loss. More experienced troops would have driven the enemy from this position at the first onset, as the One Hundred and Eighth New-York subsequently did. The advance of the enemy to Dr. MOSSER's house was the inauguration of a movement which had for its object the cutting off and capturing of the whole of the Third Division, so by crossing a hollow and gaining a hill—only a quarter of a mile distant—they could not only command the road leading to the ford, but the ford also. Gen. HAYES was fully alive to the danger of this movement, and at once strengthened his right by moving the First Brigade, commanded by Col. CARROLL—one of the most efficient officers in the service—to that point. All was darkness now, the ground was unknown, and the position of the enemy could only be judged of by the flashes from their guns. The movement was thus successfully frustrated with calmness, and a position was established, the One Hundred and Eighth New-York, with the Lieut.-Col. BENEDICT in the rear, commanding during the day, and the command devolved upon Capt. WYMAN—advanced rapidly, and without firing a shot, to a house well occupied by the enemy, within 10 rods of the house, which they delivered a volley, and with such boldness of the wall, and were soon in possession of this important position once more. This check closed the conflict; the enemy fell back in disorder upon their supports, but owing to the darkness the advantage gained could not be followed up. During the evening another division of the Second Corps, under Gen. WEBB, was moved across the ford, but they were not brought into action. There was random firing along the skirmish line, half a mile from the river, until nearly midnight, when an order was received for the troops to retire to the left bank of the river, which they did in good order and without molestation. The following morning the enemy showed themselves in great force, hoping, no doubt, for an opportunity to overwhelm the gallant Third Division, but in this they were sorely disappointed, and they manifested their chagrin by screeching and in other ways. Annexed will be found an official list of the casualties in the Third Division of the Second Corps, Gen. HAYES commanding:

Total, 42.

By the above list—which is official—it will be seen that the total loss in the Second Corps was 222, all in the Third Division and principally in Gen. OWENS' Brigade. Only six of the whole number were killed, and a large majority of the wounded will be able to take the field again at an early day.

The loss of the enemy is, of course, not definitely known. Five dead rebels were found behind the stone fence, and if our shots were as effective elsewhere, it is reasonable to suppose that their loss equals ours at least.

The enemy, as usual, had their sharpshooters well posted, and as a consequence, a large number of officers, in proportion to the number of privates, were wounded. These sharpshooters occupied trees and elevated posts, and made some excellent shots. Gen. HAYES was made the special object of their regard, and a large number of commissionals were paid him in the shape of bullets. One passed through his pants, just above the right knee, and yet did not even bruise the skin, without doing any damage to his person. Two other balls struck his horse, but fortunately without permanently disabling it.

Gen. LEWIS ADDAMS, Assistant Inspector-General of the Staff, had the top of his hat completely shot off by a shell, without receiving any injury himself whatever. His horse was also wounded. Lieut. SULLIVAN, Assistant Adjutant-General, was also wounded. Capt. SEABURY, Assistant Adjutant-General on Gen. OWENS' Staff, had his horse shot and the end of his sword shot away.

When Maj.-Gen. WARREN crossed the river during the afternoon, a sharpshooter, who all day had been occupying the top of a tree, fired at him. This fellow had been fired at many times during the day, but the range was too great for our men, but when the shot was fired at Gen. WARREN, a boy belonging to the One Hundred and Twenty-fifth New-York ran to the front and succeeded in killing the sharpshooter.

As Capt. SEABURY was going across the river in the forenoon with the advance of 200 men, and just as he was nearing the opposite bank, a rebel soldier leveled his gun at him and was about to fire, when the Captain, in a commanding voice, ordered him not to fire. The fellow hesitated, and finally raised his gun. Capt. SEABURY the next moment was at his side, and seizing him by the nape of the neck wrenched the gun from his hands and turned him over as a prisoner, and made him assist the men in crawling up the bank. During the day Capt. SEABURY was made a target of several times. Once a ball struck his foot, when he coolly called out to the fellow to shoot again. Lieut. SUTLIFF, of Gen. HAYES' Staff, who was wounded in the chest and leg, has had many narrow escapes, but I believe never was wounded before. At White Oaks he had nine ball holes in his clothes, one at the Bristoe Station fight, and several others at other battles. He is now receiving the best of care, and being a resolute and healthy young man, it is believed that he will recover. Gen. HAYES gives him unlimited praise for bravery in action.

I visited the camp of the Second Corps to-day, and found the men in excellent spirits and ready to march at a moment's warning.

SHOOTING A VEDETTE.

Since the affair of Saturday the enemy are again early on the picket line. On Monday night DANIEL HOPKINS, of the Second New-York Cavalry, Company M, Capt. ARMSTRONG, while standing as a vedette back of Ellis' Ford, was shot through the head and instantly killed. His body was found when a guard went to relieve him yesterday morning. Deceased was about 21 years old, and formerly resided on Long Island.

THE HEROES OF FORT SUMTER RE-ENLISTING.

Surgeon SHARPE, of the Eighteenth Pennsylvania Cavalry, to-day examined twenty-six men, who have reenlisted in Battery E, First Artillery—Lieut. FRENCH, a son of Maj.-Gen. FRENCH, Third Corps, commanding. This battery is on duty with the First Brigade of the Third Cavalry Division, Lieut. FORTER, son of Commodore FORTER, is also attached to the same battery. These men were all on duty at Fort Sumter under Maj. ANDERSON at the time of its surrender, and is their third reenlistment in the United States Army. One more wanted to reenlist, but this man could not pass the requisite examination—he having been one of the unfortunates who was injured by the explosion of a gun, immediately after the surrender of the fort. All honor to the brave and patriotic men.

A deserter, who left the vicinity of Fredericksburgh at 11 o'clock yesterday morning, and came into our lines last night, has given the authorities some important information in regard to the effect of the recent reconnoissance. A large body of troops from LEE'S Army, which had got half-way to Richmond, were ordered back, and other rebel operations were materially interrupted.

We once more have clear and cold weather.

E. A. PAUL.

Mr. Dickerson and Engineering.

NOTE FROM MR. E. N. DICKERSON.

WASHINGTON, Friday, Feb. 11, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

In the Times of the 30th ult., I was charged by Mr. BAIRD with "having constructed the machinery" for Mr. JASON'S Yacht, the Clara Clarita, on "my own plans." This I disproved by showing that the engine and boiler, which constituted the motive power of that Yacht, were not a steamboat engine, but on the contrary, an old stationary engine, no built by me, but by others; and on plans in use before I was born. This disposed of Mr. BAIRD'S assertion.

In your paper of the 6th inst., Mr. JASON took the field against me, and suggested in a general way, though he did not distinctly state, as of his own knowledge, that I had recommended this machinery as being "just what he wanted," and capable of giving "all the power" the boat required.

I then referred to Mr. RICOS, a friend of Mr. JASON, and to Mr. HASWELL, an engineer employed by Mr. J., to show that I never entertained such an opinion; but long before the engine was tried expressed myself in the contrary in clear terms, and advised a removal of the engine.

Mr. RICOS unexpectedly comes to my aid in the TIMES of yesterday, and reports what (he alleges) I said about the probable speed of the boat with the "adapted machinery," saying at the same time, that "with such machinery as could be put in the boat, giving me the entire control of its construction," I would guaranty a speed of sixteen to seventeen knots. This proves very satisfactorily that the "adapted machinery" was not exactly what I wanted, and did not give all the power the boat required: unless, for the first time in my life and for "this occasion only," I fell in love with slow motion, and abandoned my usual preference for rapidity.

It seems, too, from Mr. RICOS' card, that when Mr. JASON heard of my reported conjecture about the 11 to 12 knots rate, (I never said more than ten miles, however,) he said, "If she could not go faster than that he would scuttle her." It was hardly necessary to make a trial-trip, if Mr. JASON relied on my judgment and his own scuttling proclivity, I must have been invited on board to see the vessel sink. If Mr. J. really meant to execute his threat, for he had no reason to expect she would go faster than Mr. RICOS says I predicted she would, and at that rate she was to be scuttled. Fortunately Mr. JASON repented, and "I still live."

Mr. RICOS does himself injustice in trying to raise a false issue about the first trial-trip. I never said that I did not attend it. If he saw in the Evening Post of the 9th inst, my letter admitting my presence on that occasion, I cannot account for his reiteration of this unfounded charge. On the second trial-trip, when Mr. VANDERBILT was the engine driver, I did not go for the reason stated when I first mentioned this subject, that the invitation came too late. Mr. STORER, "commanding" the yacht, is well aware of this fact, for he wrote the invitation, and a few days after the trip I explained the cause of my absence.

It may be ingenious, but cannot be profitable to have these unimportant issues tendered, so as to keep out of view the real question which first compelled me to seek the space in your columns, for according which I take occasion to render my heartfelt thanks. It is not of much consequence to the public whether I am a skillful engineer, or no engineer at all—whether Mr. JASON'S yacht is most like a tortoise or a deer in movement; but it is due to my friends, and the cause I advocate, that all statements affecting my veracity should be, as they have been, met and overthrown. I hope the discussion of my merits will stop just here, and that the intelligent and wealthy gentlemen who have been unfortunately misled into disparagements of Mr. E. N. DICKERSON may assist all interested in ascertaining the merits of Mr. LAIRD'S woes and the Navy Department, and determining whether the national treasure is or is not being squandered in the construction of armed vessels which will be distinguished for everything except speed and efficiency.

EDW. N. DICKERSON.

Those who have read the Education: Intellectual, Moral and Physical, by this writer, will be prepared to welcome this new volume from the same source. Mr. SPENCER has achieved a high position as an original and comprehensive thinker, who subjects the most abstract and subtle questions to a searching and exhaustive analysis, with a rare effux of illustration and a lucid and attractive style. These traits are fully displayed in the variety of articles constituting the present volume. Several of the papers, as "Representative Government—What it is Good For?" "Reform: Its Dangers and Its Safeguards," "Prison Ethics," "State Tampering with Money and Banks," "Manners and Fashion," "Parliamentary Reform: Its Dangers and Its Safeguards," "Reason as a Rule of Conduct," "Morals and Religion

THE LAST DRAFT AND THE PROVOST-MARSHAL.—The "shoddiers" from the last draft are now in a pretty bad way. Orders have been issued for the arrest of every man who ought to have put in an appearance when drafted, and who failed to do so. Brig.-Gen. HAYS, the Acting Assistant Provost-Marshal of this City, in issuing the order, says that he is surprised at the small number of drafted men arrested who are endeavoring to avoid doing the duty of soldiers, and has commanded that the list of each Ward should be carefully gone through, and that each individual case should be reported "not found," "removed," or whatever the reason of the drafted man's non-appearance.

SUNDAY SCHOOL MISSIONARY MEETING.—The Annual Sunday School Missionary Meeting in Brooklyn, under the auspices of the American Sunday School Union, will be held in the First Reformed Dutch Church (Rev. A. A. WILLETS, pastor) to-morrow evening. Rev. J. T. DUBURIA, of the Collegiate Church, Rev. J. H. BURRIS, Associate Secretary of Missions, Rev. E. W. CHERRAY, and Rev. Mr. WILLSON, will address the meeting. Rev. Mr. CHERRAY has lately returned from Chattanooga, and will speak of the moral condition of the poor whites and freedmen, and how best to elevate them.

LAW REPORTS.

United States Circuit Court—FEB. 11.

Before Judge Shipman.

The Grand Jury came into court this morning with sixty indictments; most of them were against liquor sellers, for retailing without a license under the Internal Revenue Law. The others were for various offences on board of vessels.

Wm. 12.—The United States vs. James Reilly.—The motion for a new trial in this case was argued to-day. The defendant was convicted a few days since of retailing liquor without a license under the Internal Revenue laws. The motion for a new trial involves the question of the constitutionality of the law. It was argued by Mr. McKeon for the defendant, and by the District-Attorney in behalf of the Government.

New Ex-Sheriff Kelly was Deprived of a Pair of Horses and what followed in the Courts.

SUPERIOR COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Monell.

John Kelly vs. Elbert Nostrand.—This was an action to recover for the alleged loss of one horse from injuries to another, the horses being the property of the plaintiff, Ex-Sheriff Kelly. The loss, as alleged, was occasioned by the fault of the defendant, a veterinary surgeon, who was treating one of them for a swelling on the hock, and it appeared that the injuries from which the horse died were occasioned by the fall when he was cast, preparatory to the process of "firing."

The defendant pleaded that he was one of a firm composed of himself and Charles Roden, and claimed that the joint firm had treated the horse of the plaintiff, and that the one injured was in consequence of falling through a grating, he having broken his halter during the night.

After a trial of two or three days the complaint was dismissed on the ground that the partner of defendant should have been joined with him in the action.

E. L. Larremore and Edwin James, for plaintiff; A. J. Vanderpool, for defendant.

Charter Party—Liability for Hire of Vessel.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Peckham.

George Hotchkiss vs. Richard M. Everett et al.—In this case, reported in the Times of the 11th, the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $1,822 60. Hawkins and Latham, plaintiff's attorneys; Phelps and Rathbone, defendants' attorneys.

Damages for Carelessly Letting the Crotem Run.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS—TRIAL TERM.

MONETARY AFFAIRS.

FRIDAY, Feb. 12—P. M.

The mails from Europe last night brought forward some very considerable orders for United States Stocks, chiefly from the Continent, and at limits which could be readily met at or near the present currency of Exchange. At an early hour in the forenoon the competition among buyers for this account caused an advance of 1½@2 per cent. on the Popular Loan, and also on the long Six Per Cents, of 1881, the former being the principal attraction. The amounts taken up from the Money Brokers on Wall-street, from 105½ to 106½ per cent., were very large as compared with the limited offerings at the Stock Exchange Board. The transactions of the day are variously estimated from $600,000 to $800,000 in the Popular 5-20 years Stock alone. Some considerable parcels of the Coupons of 1881 were taken at 110 per cent., and 108½ per cent. and the accrued interest was bid for the 7.30 per cent. Treasury Notes convertible into the 1881 Stock. The immediate orders which came from abroad induced the belief that others will follow by the succeeding mails, and in the afternoon there was some disposition manifested to buy on speculation; though this demand was met by sellers, who were taken somewhat by surprise by the rapid advance since yesterday, and willing to realize on part of their biddings.

The movement in Government Stocks had its influence on Bills on London for the steamer to-morrow, although the demand for gold for immediate delivery on short contracts, kept up its price to 159½@159¾, as against 159½ at the close of business yesterday. Bills were 174@174½ per cent., which quotation is relatively cheaper than gold. We hear of only a moderate export demand for the latter. The financial news from London and the Continent by the mails of last night is regarded as more favorable to the European money markets.

The price of Money in our market to-day cannot be quoted over 6 ⅌ cent. as the rule to the established Stock Exchange and Money Brokers.

The price of Money in our market to-day is 6@7 ⅌ cent. to the Brokers, the inside figure being nearer the rule of the Street than yesterday. There is a good supply from lenders, on call loan, and the ease is increased by the reimbursement of old loans on Government Stocks which are being sold to go abroad. The feeling is unusually buoyant to-day among the leading Wall-street firms, who have made Government securities the chief staple of their business for some time past. The Banks and Private Banking establishments that subscribed liberally to the Popular Loan are also finding their reward in the present advance in its value. The Fourth National secured $2,000,000 at the very close of the subscription, and the First National and its correspondents in the interior, nearly or quite as much. Some of the large local Banks and Banks for Savings were also fortunate in this respect.

The Stock Exchange recovered its buoyancy after the Rock Island breakdown of yesterday. The general Railway list sympathized but momentarily with the collapse of an isolated corner, which was carried up with great vigor and daring two months ago, without much regard to the market for other Stocks, and at the early Board this forenoon the activity and confidence of speculation were quite as marked as earlier in the week. The business, it will be noticed, took a wide range, and was heavy in amount on nearly all the New-York and Western Shares. Among the former, Erie Preferred attracted more attention, because of the process now going on of converting the fourth and fifth mortgages of the company into Common Stock. When this is completed, the Preference Stock will rank equal to a fourth mortgage on the vast estate of the concern, standing behind only $12,000,000 senior mortgages, of which $3,000,000 is to be turned into Common Stock in (or before) the year 1866. Of the Western Roads, Galena also attracted attention, owing to the heavy buying, on a rapid advance in prices, by the leader of the recent Rock Island party. The additional business in Rock Island, at about the minimum price of last night, was so large as to induce the suspicion of new combinations in the Stock, but the evidence of this is not yet apparent. The old party are understood to have brought their accounts to a close, and it is said to a profitable close. This [illegible]

[illegible] the entire capital Stock of $6,500 shares.

At 4 o'clock the demand for the Railways was not quite so strong as on the printed sales of the Second Board, though the fluctuations in price were not material, except on Galena, which relapsed to 116¼@117 ⅌ cent. Governments kept firm, and Gold and Exchange fairly steady. Among the miscellaneous shares, there was a further advance in Cumberland Coal to-day, and Missouri 6 ⅌ cents were also firmer. It may interest the holders of these bonds hereafter, to select out the issue to the Pacific Road of Missouri. The Company owning this property, and who are indorsers on $7,000,000 Missouri 6 ⅌ cents, we understand, have secured Legislative action to enable them to complete their line to the Kansas boundary.

10TH EDITION OF

MY FARM OF EDGEWOOD.

A Country Book. By IK MARVEL, author of "Reveries of a Bachelor." In 1 vol., 12mo., $1 50; in beveled boards, &c., $1 75; half-calf, $3 75.

This work has already passed through nine editions and has received universal commendation from the press, &c.

It develops and enforces, under the form of a Farm History, the views and methods of improvement and of embellishment, &c.; it commends itself to all lovers of the country, whether residing there or confined to the city limits, as well as to those about looking for a country home.

We append extracts from a few notices:

The Chicago Journal writes:

"The farmer should read it for its wise lessons on husbandry. The townsman should read it, because it will make him love the country, and cheer him with bright visions of woods, waters, mountains, and happy country homes, and all who love literature should read it, because it is delightfully written throughout, pure and natural English. It is a genuine American classic."

The Albany Evening Journal writes:

"The book is full of good matter. It is amusing, instructive, philosophic—in short, just such a book as a scholar and a poet would be likely to write about the nobliest of all pursuits," &c., &c.

From the Philadelphia Ledger:

"It is indeed one of the wittiest yet wisest—one of the most poetical and yet most practical books that we have met with on the subject of farming and the conditions generally, advantageous and disadvantageous, of life in the country. It is almost worth a rural library in itself."

The New-York Tribune says:

"The work is full of fine and frequent passages, which betray the tenderness of feeling and delicacy of sentiment which have given such a charming grace to the previous writings of the author. It is deeply marked with sturdy, manly, practical sense; the hardest farmer may devote the Winter evening to its perusal with profit as well as pleasure, while the fine aroma of literary culture which breathes from every page will make it a favorite for the choicest hour of the refined and fastidious reader."

The Buffalo Commercial writes:

"We find him in his new guise to be the same quaint, dreamy, poetic, vagarious fellow, as of yore—little traveled, perhaps, and frosted by years—but mellowed and improved thereby; like good wine that has been long kept—yet he is the same friend that bewitched us of old."

The New-England Farmer says:

"It is full of practical suggestions drawn from the daily experience of the farm, and has many pages and every chapter, which would not be out of place in the most practical part of the most practical cultivator's library."

CUDJO'S CAVE.

TROWBRIDGE'S GREAT NOVEL!

No novel of late years, if ever, has had so rapid a success as this. IN SIX DAYS IT HAS HAD THE ORDINARY SALE OF SIX POPULAR NOVELS. And yet the sale increases as it is read. EVERYBODY IS PLEASED WITH IT.

The editor of the Saturday Evening Gazette says:

"Mr. Trowbridge's new Romance, 'Cudjo's Cave,' will justify all expectations. The story is one of unequaled interest, abounding in hair-breadth 'escapes and possessing many situations and incidents of thrilling effect. * * * That 'Cudjo's Cave' will be one of the popular books of the day, we cannot doubt," &c., &c.

The public and private libraries, though largely supplied, cannot begin to satisfy their patrons.

It is not a flashy novel, to be read and thrown aside. It is a historical work of lasting interest, and one every gentleman will desire for his library and for the family.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The steamship Fulton, from Port Royal, arrived yesterday, bringing news of an expedition, consisting of three brigades and a light battery, under command of Brig.-Gen. TRUMAN SEYMOUR, having successfully landed, on the 8th inst., at Jacksonville, Fla.—a place which has already been twice occupied and abandoned by our forces. Gen. GILLMORE had followed Gen. SEYMOUR, to look after matters. At Charleston there was nothing new in the position of affairs. The desultory bombardment was not intermitted. An Anglo-rebel steamer had been destroyed. She attempted to run the gauntlet of our iron-clad fleet during a fog, but only succeeded in getting ashore on Sullivan's Island, where she was riddled by our gunners.

Gen. CURTIS arrived at Fort Smith, Ark., on the 4th inst., after a horseback journey of four hundred miles over the plains. He will remain there but a few days, being engaged in reorganizing the Army of the Frontier, under Gen. BLUNT, for speedy military operations.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, writing from Nashville, says that "some little time will elapse before the army can move, but when it does there will be a crash."

The veteran regiments in Gen. GRANT'S army have already begun to return to the field, and are largely recruited. The Sixty-sixth Ohio arrived at Nashville, 105 stronger than when it went home, and the Third Wisconsin returned full.

A telegram from Memphis gives some particulars of the condition and location of the rebel troops in Arkansas. Their entire force is estimated at 14,000. They are scattered to a great extent, and are in every stage of demoralization.

CONGRESS.

The Senate, yesterday, devoted its time chiefly to the consideration of the Deficiency Bill. The amendments of the Senate Ways and Means Committee were agreed to. They strike out all provisions for an increase of the regular clerical force of the departments, and authorize the employment of about one thousand extra clerks for a period not exceeding one year after the close of the rebellion; $150,000 is appropriated for repairs at the Norfolk Navy-yard; $144,000 for works at Port Royal; and $47,000 for repairs at the Brooklyn Navy-yard. Amendments were adopted appropriating $300,000 for deficiencies in the Quartermaster's, Commissary and Ordnance Departments. The Senate then went into Executive Session, when it adjourned until to-day.

The House, yesterday, was exclusively occupied with the Enrollment Bill. Mr. SCHENCK opened the debate by announcing, in reply to a question for delay from Mr. COX, that the country could not tolerate another hour's delay—the armies must be recruited. The Opposition at once began to filibuster, in order to defeat action on the bill, but they were soon choked off, and the pending amendment to conscript Africans was adopted, by a vote of 84 yeas to 69 nays. The original bill as then amended was then passed, yeas 93, nays 68. A synopsis of the bill will be found in the Congressional proceedings. The House adjourned till Monday.

STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate, yesterday, the Metropolitan Police bill being under consideration and sharply discussed, it was decided to substitute the names of Messrs. BOSWORTH and McMURRAY for Messrs. FOREST and JOYCE. Thus amended, the bill passed to a third reading. The Commissioners now named are Messrs. BOSWORTH, McMURRAY, ROOSEVELT and BERGEN. Among the bills passed were those making appropriations for the payment of the Canal debt for the fiscal year; and one limiting the term of office of Notaries Public to two years, and providing for one for each bank in the State.

In the Assembly a bill for the relief of the Long Island Gas Company was reported favorably. A great many bills of interest to the citizens of New-York and Brooklyn were introduced, among them a proposition for a railroad in Fulton-st. and Desbrosses-street. The evening session was devoted to a discussion on the Governor's Message.

GENERAL NEWS.

The wrecked quebec Chichester was launched at Greenpoint on Wednesday morning. A sad accident marred the occasion. A coil of rope attached to the anchor open out so rapidly as to drag overboard a daughter of Capt. HAYS, three years of age, and a son of Ex-Mayor WOOD. All efforts to save the child, Mrs. BRADLEY, who was drowned.

The Cincinnati Republican of the 9th inst. editorially refers to the connection of Gen. GRANT's name with the Presidency, and states on authority that Gen. GRANT is not giving the subject of politics, or anything than the rebellion. His desire is to close the war as soon as possible, and he wants to be foot-loose, not hampered by political entanglements. He asks no other duty now. He is not, and will not be, a candidate for the Presidency at the forthcoming election, and politicians may trim their sails accordingly."

Flour and Wheat were less active yesterday, at drooping prices. Corn and Whisky are in more demand, closing with an upward tendency. Provisions and Rio Coffee were actively sought after, partly by speculative buyers, at buoyant rates. Cotton was dull and heavy. A fair inquiry prevailed for Hay, Hops, Leather, Fruit, Metals, Petroleum, Linseed Oil, Turk's Island Salt, Tallow, Sugars, Wool and Tobacco. Freight engagements were checked by the increased firmness of shipowners.

There was a further rise of two ⅌ cent. yesterday, in Government Stocks, with very large transactions on orders from abroad. The Popular Loan, 106¼@106⅝ ⅌ cent. The Stock Market was generally buoyant. Money in easy supply at 6@7 ⅌ cent. Gold steady 159¾@⅞; Exchange not so strong, 174@174¼ ⅌ cent.

Unreasonable Because Unseasonable—Mr. Sumner's Proposition.

Attempts are vigorously kept up in some quarters to force upon the public mind Mr. SUMNER's project of amending the Constitution so as to bury Slavery forever. Hot-headed men are unwilling to acquiesce in the wise conclusion of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate, that the time has not come for the agitation of that subject. They are determined that it shall be agitated, and forthwith. The only appeal then is to the sound patriotism and calm good sense of the people. We are confident that public opinion will set itself like adamant against the introduction of any such new subject for political controversy at this stage of the war.

What is most needed now is the concentration of the public mind upon the demands of the war crisis. The rebels are collecting their energies for their last desperate effort. They have resorted to means almost unheard of to make themselves more formidable to us than ever. They will open the Spring campaign more nearly matched with us than they have been at any time during the last two years, unless our armies are greatly reinforced. The President understands the danger, and in the enlargement of his call for soldiers from three hundred thousand to five hundred thousand, has done promptly and boldly what devolved upon him. It is for the people to fulfill the work. Incalculable disaster, may come unless it is fulfilled quickly—to a certainty almost will come, if it long remains unfulfilled, or half fulfilled. Time presses. Spring, with all its momentous issues, is close at hand. The supreme concern of the day ought to be the filling up of our depleted armies. It cannot be done in season, without great effort—far greater than has yet been made. There must be more complete and more vigorous combination. The public spirit must be brought up to a yet higher pitch; must acquire more of the determination which is now impelling our enemy to exertions almost superhuman.

What a time is this for the throwing of a new apple of discord into the arena! How is it possible for a man who really wishes the triumph of the Government over the gigantic treason that confronts it more fiercely than ever, to try to distract loyal people with new issues that have nothing to do with the great necessity of strengthening the Government? It cannot for a moment be pretended that the proposed amendment of the Constitution will advance our armies one hair's-breadth toward putting down this rebellion. It has no military bearing whatever against the enemy. Its only military effect, if it be insisted upon, will be felt by ourselves, in diverting the attention, and relaxing the effort, necessary among the people to keep our armies up to their requisite strength.

We have nothing to say against the intrinsic merits of the measure. It is, perhaps, true that the solution of the many perplexities which attend the dealings of the nation with Slavery may finally be found in a constitutional amendment, making an end of the institution summarily and forever. It may be that the Emancipation Proclamation of the President, which was valid only as an act of war, may, when peace comes, require some such supplementary civil action. What we protest against is not the measure itself, but the time taken to urge it. Good as it may be in itself, it is most incongruously and deplorably out of time. The application of the proposition is, for the most part, to territory still in the hands of the rebels. Mr. SUMNER is seeking to amend the Constitution against a people whom the Constitution, at present, can no more reach than if they belonged to another planet. The thing is preposterous, in the literal signification of the word. It places that first which ought to come last. Our first business is to regain jurisdiction over the rebel territory. When that is done, then, and not until then, may we fitly discuss how we will exercise that jurisdiction. We may pile our constitutional amendments, pertaining to the South, sky high; they will only excite the derision of our enemies, and of the world at large, until we acquire the power to enforce them. We have no such power yet. Unless our earnestness and singleness of purpose are largely improved, there is danger that we never shall have it. This is what ought to concern Mr. SUMNER, if he be a true patriot. The effort he made in getting upon paper his terrible string of resolutions against rebel Slavery, might, if properly directed, have put a whole regiment into the field against rebel slaveholders; and we don't suppose any sane man will doubt which would have the greatest effect upon the fortunes either of Slavery or of the rebellion.

We say that not only true loyalty, but consistent Anti-Slavery itself, forbids this unseasonable introduction of a new political Anti-Slavery issue. It is absolutely certain that the anxiety of Northern abolitionists to kill Slavery can never be gratified unless this war against the rebellion succeeds. If the "Confederacy" acquires its independence, Slavery there will be as secure from their hostility as Slavery in Cuba or in Brazil. They, of all men, are the most bound in consistency to devote themselves with the most absolute concentration of purpose to the reinforcement of our armies and the most effective prosecution of the war. And yet Mr. SUMNER, ever since this war began, has had ten thoughts and ten thousand words against Slavery, while he has had one for the war. This is not true patriotism. It is not true Anti-Slaveryism. The war should be the all-engrossing thought. Without it the country cannot live. Without it, Slavery will not die. The Union cannot be resolved into new life, nor constitutionalized into new life; it has got to be conquered into new life. So, too, Slavery cannot be resolved to death, nor constitutionalized to death; fighting only can reach it, and through victory alone will it perish.

The Present and Prospective Strength of the Rebel Armies.

The aggregate of force which the rebels now have in the field would be a very interesting as well as very important matter to settle definitely; but the absence of reliable data renders it somewhat difficult to do so. The rebel estimates themselves vary from a given number up to three times that number. In the late debate in the rebel House of Representatives, Mr. SMITH, of North Carolina, stated that "the Confederacy has at this time 400,000 men on its muster rolls;" but he goes on to add, "probably not one-half are actually in the field."

Mr. SMITH was followed by Mr. HOLCOMBE, of Virginia, who asserted in opposition to this statement that they have now "500,000 men in the field," and added that "the new law would add a hundred thousand more." If it would be interesting for us to know whether Mr. SMITH or Mr. HOLCOMBE is correct in his estimate of the rebel strength, it is certainly equally so to the rebel Congress, for the difference between 200,000 men and 500,000 men is hardly one to be sneezed at. It is probable that Mr. SMITH's figure of 200,000 may be too low; but it is more than probable, it is certain, that Mr. HOLCOMBE's figure of 500,000 is entirely too high, for it can be proved that the rebels cannot possibly have 500,000 men, or anything like that number, now under arms.

The total available military capital which the rebels had to start the war with—including the entire white male population between the ages of 18 and 45—was about 800,000. Now, though two successive conscriptions have been had, the whole of this number has not yet been drawn from, for the rebel Congress has lately had under discussion the proposition to conscribe the class that have already furnished substitutes, and this number is estimated by themselves at 100,000 men. Let us, therefore, give them the most liberal possible allowance, and suppose that they have had in arms during the campaigns of the past three years 700,000. From this figure, which we believe to be considerably in excess of the reality, but which we postulate in order that we may err on the safe side, we have now to subtract the losses of the rebels by battle and disease. Official returns from rebel sources authorize us in putting these at 250,000 men. This would leave 450,000. In addition to this we must deduct the 50,000 prisoners we now hold. This leaves 400,000, which is precisely the figure which Mr. SMITH, in the rebel Congress, stated as the number on the muster rolls. But while he claims that there are 400,000 men on the muster rolls, he admits that there are but 200,000 men actually in the field. The question now is, where are the other 200,000 men?

Such items as the following from a late issue of the Richmond Whig will furnish the reply: "The country is now full of deserters and stragglers, hiding in our mountains and swamps, and in many instances confederating with negroes in marauding upon planters." This is the class whom JEFF. DAVIS designated by the gentle euphemism of "absentees," and whom he has been trying to woo back to their allegiance by the double means of touching appeals and the more potent enginery of cavalry scouts and bloodhounds. The rebel journals have themselves placed the number of these "absentees" as high as two hundred thousand men. If we suppose that they got as many as a half of these back, it would give the rebel military force a strength of 300,000 men, and we believe that this is quite as high as the most liberal data will possibly allow us to fix it. The Chairman of the Senate Committee on Military Affairs, whose estimates doubtless embrace all that is known to the Government on the subject, in a late speech placed the present rebel strength at 260,000, which, we dare say, is as near the actuality as we can hope to reach.

To this present aggregate the rebel counselors are now devising measures to add what reinforcements they can. The only recourse they have for this is, first to extend the conscriptable age from forty-five to fifty-five; and, secondly, to press into the army all who have been exempted by reason of furnishing substitutes. The rebel Senate passed the bill contemplating both of these crucial measures; but the House of Representatives, reflecting on the disastrous consequence of taking away the small class engaged in the production of food, and in the mechanic arts, annulled these provisions, or at least restricted their action in several important particulars. This action, of course, lessens the small force available for the reinforcement of their armies. It may in fact be possible for the rebel leaders to add forty or fifty thousand men to the force now in the field, which would raise the aggregate force with which to enter the Spring campaign now being inaugurated, to 300,000 men.

It is true that these 300,000 trained soldiers, concentrated in two or three powerful armies and judiciously handled, may achieve much, and we have not been of those who are disposed to underrate what it is in the power of these men still to accomplish. But the moral which we wish to point is, that the rebel armies have reached their utmost limit, that they cannot possibly be added to, because the military basis is exhausted, and that the desperate players who have for three years past, with matchless skill, conducted the gigantic game of rebellion, have now their last throw in their hands. A battle Summer like to that of last year, even if, unlike that of last year, it should be one in which we gain no decisive military successes, would still, by mere dint of the number of men killed, disabled and diseased, leave the rebels so crippled that operations of any great magnitude must henceforth be to them out of the question.

The Conscription Bill as Passed.

Congress yesterday completed the Conscription Bill, and having already gone through the Senate, it now only awaits the President's approval to become the law of the land. The measure has had a stormy passage through the House, and there were times when we much feared it would suffer shipwreck. The Copperheads exhausted every resource of their peculiar tactics to obstruct action on the bill, and if they felt it was out of their power to kill it, they resolved at least to delay it as much as possible. As some important measures of the enrollment could not be carried into effect until the passage of the bill, they doubtless hoped to be able to throw the draft itself over beyond the 10th of March. This triumph has not been allowed them. And in the final vote on the bill as amended, the patriotic voice of the House spoke out clear and bold in a vote of ninety-three yeas against sixty nays.

It is a matter of some gratification to us that some errors of judgment touching important points in the bill, into which the House fell, and which were made in these columns the subject of urgent protest, were in the end corrected by the better sense of the body. The practical product of the law, when the draft comes to take place, may be more or less, but at least it will not go into effect with such suicidal provisions as, if adopted, must have drained dry the very fountains of our supply. Three hundred dollars now will not put into a man's pocket a certificate that makes it impossible for the country to call on him for three years. The bill, as passed, retains the wise provisions of the Senate bill which discriminate between the two classes of substitutes and restrict the duration of exemption by commutation. If the substitute is not liable to draft, the person furnishing him shall be exempt from draft during the time for which such substitute is not liable to draft, not exceeding the term for which he was drafted; but, if the substitute is liable to draft, the name of the person furnishing him shall be liable to draft in filling future quotas. And if any drafted person shall hereafter pay money for the procuration of a substitute under the provisions of the act to which this is an amendment, such payment of money shall operate only to relieve such person from draft during the time for which the person was drafted, unless the names placed in the box be sooner exhausted, in which case the name shall be returned to the wheel.

For these two important improvements over the old act, and which are the main limitations to its fatal effects, the country is indebted to Senator SUMNER. They were adopted by the Senate, but passing into the House were first rejected and afterwards restored. It is impossible to exaggerate their importance—an importance which reaches into the future much more even than it touches the present. We regard their retention as a positive triumph.

There are several other features of the bill which though of great are yet of subordinate interest. In the apportionment of the quotas of different localities, account is to be taken as far as practicable of the number of men they have previously furnished to the service, and localities are to be credited with those who have entered the naval service. Enrollment Boards are to revise their schedules with the view of adding all names that have been omitted as well as all persons who shall arrive at the age of twenty previous to the draft, and all aliens who shall declare their intention to become citizens. Members of religious denominations who shall by oath or affirmation declare that they are conscientiously opposed to the bearing of arms, and who are prohibited from doing so by the rules and articles of faith and practice of said religious denomination, are, when drafted into the military service, to be considered noncombatants, and be assigned by the Secretary of War to duty in the hospitals or to the care of freedmen, or pay the sum of $300 to such person as the Secretary of War shall designate to receive it, to be applied to the benefit of sick and wounded soldiers, provided that no person shall be entitled to the benefit of the provisions of this section, unless his declaration of conscientious scruples against bearing arms shall be supported by satisfactory evidence that his deportment has been uniformly consistent with such declarations.

The following persons are exempted, namely: such as are rejected as physically or mentally unfit for the service; also, persons actually in the military or naval service of the United States at the time of the draft, and all persons who have served in the military or naval service two years during the present war, and been honorably discharged therefrom. The two classes are consolidated, and the bill also contains the section for enrolling all the able-bodied males of African descent, &c., upon which a separate vote was taken before the bill was passed.

THE LIQUOR DEALERS IN TROUBLE.—The Internal Revenue Law was very generally accepted by our people with cheerfulness. We have heard of but one effort of any consequence to nullify its provisions or to seriously oppose them, and that has been on the part of the liquor dealers, many of whom refused to take out the license required by the act, and clubbed together to oppose the law in the courts. Their battle with the Government is on one of them of retailing liquor without a license, an offence which renders the transgressor of the law liable to an imprisonment for a period to be fixed by the discretion of the court, not exceeding two years; and a day or two since some forty or fifty more of them were indicted in a batch for the same offence.

On the trial of EMILY, the man who was convicted, his counsel raised the question of the constitutionality of the law, and this question was yesterday argued fully before the court on a motion for a new trial. If the court should sustain the law, the battle will be pretty nearly over for this part of the country, as there is no appeal from the Circuit Court to the Supreme Court at Washington in a criminal case, except upon a certificate of a division of opinion between two Judges, while this case has been tried before Judge SHIPMAN alone. And as the Judge announced some days ago that he should make no long delay in disposing of the questions of law involved, and that he should expect to proceed at once to dispose of the other cases before the court, the Government will have the means of making its victory, if it wins one, neither barren nor indecisive. The spectacle of thirty or forty liquor dealers before the court, in doubt as to how long a term of imprisonment its discretion might severally subject them to, would be speedily followed by a rush of the whole fraternity to the collectors' offices, to make their peace and get their licenses.

THE TROUBLE ABOUT CITY REFORM.—The "Citizens' Association," which has been formed for the purpose of promoting reform in the Municipal Government, will be a very valuable organization if the members do not mistake its object, and no not expect too much. They must not imagine, in the first place, that any number of "appeals" to the tax-payers will be productive of the smallest benefit, no matter how cogent they may be. The tax-payers know all about the corruption of the City Government, and all heartily detest and abhor the "Ring," but they are divided into two classes: The first consists of those who, knowing to what extent they are plundered by the banditti of the City Hall, nevertheless find that it "pays better" to submit quietly than to devote any time to trying to bring about a reform, and will, consequently, as long as indifference pays a good dividend, not suffer themselves to be distracted into vigilance by considerations of general patriotism. The second consists of those who are shocked, disgusted, and grievously robbed, and anxious to do something to put a stop to the abuses from which they suffer. But this class is numerically so small, that when it comes to counting votes, they are one against a thousand. Even if all the tax-payers were united, however, they could do little at elections. The non-taxpayers are in the majority, and they are completely controlled by "the Ring." It is true that the frauds and corruption of their leaders, and their persistent plunder of the City Treasury affects them as it does the property owners, but it affects them only indirectly, through their rents, and the price of their provisions, and it is of course always easy to conceal this from them, and ascribe the increasing drafts on their wages to the war and the paper money. Moreover, they are generally foreigners, generally very ignorant, unused to thinking on any subject, and least of all on political subjects. Their votes are generally cast in accordance with their feelings, and their one idea of political duty is faithful adherence to a leader, and through him to a party.

Unless, therefore, the Citizens' Association can get at these people, and influence them, their labor, as long as the City is governed by universal suffrage, will be in vain. The alternative presented to them is either to take the appointment of municipal functionaries out of the hands of the people, or else to devise some means of breaking up the machinery by which some 40,000 non-taxpayers now put public robbers into office year after year, with a constancy on which the behavior of these worthies while in office does not seem to have the least influence. What these means should be we do not take upon us to suggest. But we beg of the association to remember that the mischief from which we are all suffering and of which we are all complaining, is brewed down in dark depths, which their appeals in the newspapers never reach. Few of the constituents of the Ring are able to read at all. They get their political information and advice in pot-houses from knaves almost as ignorant as themselves. The question, therefore, is, how they are to be got at and convinced that when the Common Council spends its thousands on junketings, and feastings, and receptions, they suffer from it themselves far more than the Astors and Stewarts.

RESOURCES OF THE UNITED STATES—SUPPLY OF GOLD.—The Senate of the United States have directed the publication of the report on the resources of the United States, presented to the International Statistical Congress by Mr. SAMUEL B. RUGGLES, delegate to that body from our Government. Its statements excited much attention in the Congress and throughout Europe, intended, as they were, to exhibit the ability of the United States to pay in gold any debt it might incur in repressing the existing rebellion. The subject was presented under the heads: First, of Territory, exhibiting the vast field of fertile land open to gratuitous occupation, and inviting immigrants from Europe; second, of Population, with its irrepressible growth at the ratio of 35 per cent for every succeeding decade; third, of Production, and consequent creation of taxable property, with its arithmetical ratio of increase, showing that the last decade has added, and that each succeeding decade must add, an amount far exceeding any probable amount of public debt; and fourth, of Precious Metals, unfolding the vast deposits of dormant wealth in gold and silver in our metalliferous regions between the Missouri River and the Pacific. The report concludes with the suggestion peculiarly proper for a Statistical Congress, that measures should be immediately adopted to ascertain, by authentic evidence, the present and probable future supply of gold and silver by the United States, by Russia, by British America and Australia.

The Chamber of Commerce of the City of New-York, at their last meeting, manifested their opinion of the preëminent importance of the subject, by ordering the report to be entered at large on their records—and still more significantly by raising a Special Committee, of which Mr. RUGGLES is Chairman, to open the necessary correspondence with the different civilized nations, to determine, as nearly and as promptly as practicable, the present supply and probable future production of gold and silver. It may be reasonably expected that our Government will afford to the committee any proper facilities for prosecuting an inquiry so important to our commerce and our currency, and to ascertain reports of such consequence in relation to the payment in gold of our large and rapidly increasing public debt.

THE SCARIFICATION POLICY AGAIN.—We confess to a decided inability to appreciate the wisdom of such expeditions as that to Florida, which we record to-day. Gen. GILLMORE has suddenly transferred the scene of his operations from before Charleston to Jacksonville, and we do not think the change one much to the credit of those who directed it. If the detachment of the expeditionary force does not in the least jeopardize the possession of Morris Island, if its works and garrison are still sufficient to hold their own against any enterprises into which BEAUREGARD might be tempted, it still remains difficult to see any adequate object to be accomplished by it. Jacksonville has already been twice occupied by our troops, and twice abandoned as useless, and because the forces were wanted elsewhere. There is not the smallest military importance in Florida, for the rebels have no force there worth speaking of, and the State has no strategic value whatever. Had we indeed a surplus of force which we did not know how to dispose of, it might be worth while, in a purely political sense, to send an expedition to Florida which would occupy it en permanence, and enable the State to come back into the Union. We believe a majority of the people of Florida are in sympathy with us, and would gladly see the restoration of their State; but in order that this shall be made available, it is necessary to insure the permanent protection of the people. They cannot afford to show their loyalty if this is merely to be such another flying visit as they have had every Summer for the past three years. But have we the force to spare to do this? Can we afford to send ten thousand men into a kind of military coventry merely to accomplish this object? Surely not. We trust there is a wisdom in this move other than meets the eye; but, for the present, we can't see it.

M. THIERS' SPEECH.—The momentous events of which our country is the theatre so absorb the public mind that there are few, probably, who give heed to the operations of vital interest which the French for the past two years have been conducting in Mexico. The advices which from time to time have come to us respecting the cause of the French invasion of that Republic and the progress of the war have been of such a fragmentary character and generally colored to suit the French market on the one hand or the Mexican sympathizers on the other, that to the reader who has not made the matter a special study, the exact primary and present condition of the case is still likely to be a mystery. But in the speech of M. THIERS, delivered in the French Chamber on the 26th ult., which we publish this morning, this whole question will be found lucidly explained, and evidently with the highest regard to truth. Those, therefore, who would know the facts, will be thankful of an opportunity to read them as presented in the terse, logical, and incisive manner which always characterizes the utterances of this French statesman.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—"Faust" was given last night in another brilliant house—every seat and standing place being occupied. The performance was in all respects the same as heretofore, with the exception that toward the end of the third act Signor BELLOT's voice became so impaired by a severe cold that Mr. WERRENRATH had to be substituted in his place.

To-night FERRETTI's popular opera of "Ione" will be played for the last time this season. It has to be withdrawn in order to make room for other novelties.

The Town Elections, and Recruiting in Tioga County.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

The town meetings held in this county yesterday, resulted in the election of seven straight Union men, and two Copperheads, being a gain of two for the Union over last year. In the town of Spencer the vote was a tie, but the meeting having adjourned without calling a new election, the appointment of Supervisor for that town devolves upon the Justices of the Peace, who will give it to the Union candidate. Our majority in the town of Tioga was counted out by a Copperhead board, by a majority of only two. This, in a town which invariably gives a majority of one hundred against us, is a good omen for the future. The contest in our own town of Owego was very animated. A large vote was polled, and resulted in over two hundred Union majority.

The quota of this district, (the twenty-sixth) for the first 300,000 of the last call, under the stimulus of local bounties of $300, was filled up some time ago. And now the other counties are removed, and enlisting for the extra 300,000 is proceeding very rapidly. There is no doubt but our whole quota will be filled before the allotted time expires. As we are so near the borders of Pennsylvania, a great many men are being attracted by our large bounties, and coming over here to enlist. So our sister Keystone is suffering severely, for the lack of a little enterprise and legislation.

PURIFY AND INCREASE YOUR STOCK OF PURE BLOOD.—Every individual, even the most diseased, has within him a germ or root of that original pure blood of our common mother Eve, which germs of pure blood is the supporter of his life, and is in constant struggle to throw off the heterogeneous, corrupt humors which are the causes of disease in the individual. By purging the body of this diseased individual of its bad humors, you allow the germ of pure blood to gain ground, and to make blood of a better quality, and so on progressively, till the whole man is regenerated; for the good principle, or good pure blood, is always striving to be predominant over the bad or diseased humors. Let all who wish to be of a fine healthy habit, who wish to have a sound mind in a sound body, who desire to be able to stand without injury the continual changes of this climate, who desire to have healthy children, use the Brandreth Pills, which will effectually cleanse the blood of all bad humors, and restore the human body to the state of health enjoyed before the introduction of mineral medicines. Remember, Brandreth's Pills place within the reach of all health and long life. See that B. BRANDRETH is on the Government stamp in white letters.

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH CURED.

No. 420 SIXTH-AV., NEW-YORK, Dec. 2, 1863.

I was deaf for several years, and hearing of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I was induced to place myself under his care, and I am now happy to state that my hearing was entirely restored after a short treatment. I was also suffering from chronic catarrh, of which I was also cured by the skillful treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg. I do but justice to the Doctor in stating that in treating me he displayed that skill and knowledge which have already procured for him such a deserved reputation, and that the principles which direct his system of curing Deafness and Catarrh are such as to render success certain, in my opinion. Many months have passed since Dr. Von Eisenberg restored my hearing, and it continues as good as ever.

CATARRH CURED.

READ!

I have been suffering for a long time from a severe Catarrh, with a continual dullness in my head, a tightness across my chest, a weight over my eyes, which were weak, watery, and very painful. My nostrils were constantly obstructed with a pouring fluid. That frequent sneezing, hoarseness of my voice, often attended with a fullness of my throat, great soreness, and a continual dropping. Dr. Von Eisenberg has cured me of all these disagreeable sufferings. I may, indeed, say that I feel a new life. The treatment of Dr. Von Eisenberg is as skillful as it is successful. It is in my opinion impossible to overrate the benefit I have received at his hands. I heartily recommend any one suffering like myself to place themselves under Dr. Von Eisenberg's care, with a certainty of being speedily cured.

HARLEM, July 20, 1863.

I have been deaf for over TWENTY-FIVE YEARS, and Dr. VON EISENBERG operated on both of my ears without the slightest pain—a thing that I could not believe could be done. I now hear well, and feel as I never felt for the last twenty years. The dexterity and skill with which the operation was performed evince the highest practical ability. I hear perfectly. It is now over a month since the operation, and I continue to feel as well as ever.

NO. 128 ALLEN-ST., NEW-YORK, Feb. 9, 1863.

I have been completely deaf in one ear, and partially so in the other, for above seventeen years, with a disagreeable discharge from both ears, combined with continual rumbling noise in the head, for which I have been treated by a most eminent practitioner in the City without the slightest relief.

Introduced Dr. Von Eisenberg, but I must candidly say that I had no faith in his success when I did so. It is, therefore, due to Dr. Von Eisenberg to acknowledge that I am entirely cured; also, that he displayed that skill and knowledge which have procured for him such an unrivaled reputation. As I have had an opportunity of comparing his method of treatment with that of others, I can truly state that it is not only superior, but the principles which direct his mode of restoring the hearing are, in my opinion, certain.

NEW-YORK, July 28, 1863.

This certifies that my mother has been for some time afflicted with partial deafness, suffering from pain, and rumbling noises in the head, together with other indications of a total loss of hearing. Dr. Von Eisenberg removed from her ears great quantity of matter, together with coagulated blood, relieving her instantaneously, and all without pain. His with grateful thanks that I give this testimony to his skill.

CHRONIC CATARRH CURED.

READ.

NEW-YORK, March 28, 1863.

"This is to certify, that I have suffered from very severe CHRONIC CATARRH, with a dull heaviness in the head. I felt my nose completely stopped up accompanied by continual soreness of the throat, the chills stealing over me with occasional hot flushes, a great tightness of the chest and pain, so much so, that every one thought it was consumption. Having heard of the great cures performed by Dr. Von Eisenberg, I consulted him with but little hope of success. I am now happy to be enabled to add my testimonial to the great number already in the Doctor's possession, as to his scientific and successful mode of treatment, as he has shown in my case that skill and knowledge which have procured for him so great a reputation. I am so entirely restored to perfect health that I do most sincerely recommend all sufferers from CHRONIC CATARRH and SORE THROAT to apply at once to Dr. Von Eisenberg with a certainty of being cured."

☞ Read the following few of the many TESTIMONIALS we are daily receiving, eulogistic of this invaluable invention:

From the President of the U. S. Sanitary Commission.

U. S. SANITARY COMMISSION, No. 823 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK, Feb. 14, 1864.

I have had a large part of my dwelling-house in New-York supplied with the Patent Weather Strip of Mr. Browne. Although my experience of its effects is short, it is as far as it goes, quite decisive. There is a very decided saving in the cost of fuel, a marked exclusion of dust, and—what is nearly of as much consequence as the noisy corner I live—a wonderful diminution in noise. The clatter of sashes is stopped, and the street-rattle by day and night rendered inoffensive. To derive the full benefit, or any fair proportion of the full benefit, the whole house, windows and doors, should be "stripped." I think, for a simple invention, it is destined to prove a very important one in its economical and its pleasant effects. How wholesome the exclusion of fresh air by so perfect a system of plenum may prove, is a question very interesting to Sanitarians. But those who adopt this improvement must provide for ventilation in the most perfect form, by admitting pure air, at a proper temperature, and not at the caprice of the weather. With this precaution, there is only the greatest benefit to be expected from the largest use of the Weather Strip.

Rev. HENRY W. BELLOWS.

From the Editor of the Evangelist.

I have used BROWNE'S WEATHER STRIPS for the last eight months, and find that they add greatly to the comfort of my house. No more cold drafts from sitting near the windows. The sashes never rattle even in the wildest winter night. They save much in fuel, while they keep the temperature even and pleasant. Would not be without them for double their cost.

Rev. HENRY M. FIELD, No. 95 East 26th-st.

OFFICE OF THE GREENWOOD CEMETERY, No. 20 BROADWAY, New-York, Feb. 4, 1864.

I cheerfully recommend the use of BROWNE'S METALLIC WEATHER STRIPS. A Winter's experience of their efficacy in excluding the severest winds in a very exposed situation, satisfies me of the great value of the invention, and would make us unwilling to dispense with their use.

from Rev. Francis Lobdell, Pastor of the South Congregational Church, Bridgeport, Conn.

BRIDGEPORT, Jan. 21, 1864.

Messrs. Seth W. Fowle & Co.,

GENTLEMEN: I consider it a duty which I owe to suffering humanity, to bear testimony to the virtues of DR. WISTAR'S BALSAM OF WILD CHERRY. I have used it when I have had occasion for any remedy for Coughs, Colds, or Sore Throat, for many years. It is a simple, safe medicine, has it failed to relieve and cure me. I have frequently been very hoarse on Saturday, and looked forward to the delivery of two sermons on the following day with sad misgivings, but by a liberal use of the Balsam my hoarseness has invariably been removed, and I have preached without difficulty.

I commend it to my brethren in the ministry, and to public speakers generally, as a certain remedy for the bronchial troubles to which we are peculiarly exposed.

Sincerely wishing you success, I send you this testimonial, which you are at liberty to use in any way you choose. Perhaps the Balsam does not affect all persons alike, but it always removes my hoarseness, and fits me for the minister's hard-working day—the Sabbath.

Very truly yours, FRANCIS LOBDELL.

Years of experience and a correspondence extending throughout all nationalities of the habitable globe have turned theories into facts, and established a basis from which we need not err. We are not surprised at such facts as the following—although the persons who write them are. We know the persons and circumstances, hence feel at liberty to indorse their statements.

"NEW-BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 24, 1862.

DEAR SIR: I have been afflicted many years with severe prostrating cramps in my limbs, cold feet and hands, and a general disordered system. Physicians and medicine failed to relieve me. While visiting some friends in New-York who were using Plantation Bitters, they prevailed upon me to try them. I commenced with a small wine-glassful after dinner. Feeling better by degrees, in a few days I was astonished to find the coldness and cramps had entirely left me, and I could sleep the night through, which I have not done for years. I feel like another being; my appetite and strength have also greatly improved by the use of the Plantation Bitters.

THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN.
THE LONDON TIMES,
speaking of this great moral drama, mentions a fact in which the Provincial Press of Great Britain and Ireland has given confirmation.
"A clerk who absconded from Liverpool with £21,000, the property of his employers, and after visiting many places, arrived at Birmingham, at about 6 o'clock, and after taking some refreshment, he went to the theatre to while away an hour. It so happened that the piece which was being performed on the occasion of his visit was
THE TICKET-OF-LEAVE MAN,
and the guilty man came to have drawn a moral from the representation, for when the scene in which the interview between Hawkshaw, the detective, and the "Ticket-of-leave man" took place, Fisher, the clerk, was so affected that he went out of the theatre, got three telegrams, and sent £1,000 back to his employers."

Been struck so to the soul, that presently,
They have proclaimed their malefaction."

AFFAIRS AT THE STATE CAPITAL.

The Police Bill—Names of Purdy and Jesse Hutchins Out—Bosworth and McMurray Inserted—Exciting Debate in the Senate—The Bill Ordered to a Third Reading.

Correspondence of the New-York Times:

ALBANY, Friday, Feb. 15.

The affair between Senators SHAFER and FIELDS was satisfactorily arranged when the Senate met again, at four o'clock yesterday afternoon. Senator FIELDS stated that a resolution had been adopted by the Democratic caucus, in his absence, directing Democrats not to vote for the Police Bill; and as he considered himself a Democrat, under the direction of the caucus, he could not vote for the Police Bill, as he had proposed to do in the morning. The Senate reconsidered the vote excusing Mr. FIELDS for not voting in Committee of the Whole, and so Mr. FIELDS was himself again. In the evening he concluded his adjourned speech in defense of the Governor's Message. For some unaccountable reason, the Senate, with the exception of five, or perhaps six Senators, was not present to hear him. The vacant chairs in the circle of the Senate looked discouraging. The new occupants of the railing, very, however, crowded, and Senator FIELDS got through with his denunciation of the Administration and his speech, as well as could have been expected, or nearly so, considering his circumstances.

At 12 o'clock M. to-day the Police Bill came up again in the Senate, as special order. The Senate resolved itself into Committee of the Whole, and went to work upon the bill in an apparently cool and business-like manner. Senator COGANS, of the Fifth Senatorial District, moved to strike out the name of JAMES F. PURDY from the bill and insert the name of JAMES S. BOSWORTH. The motion was carried by an almost unanimous vote. Mr. COGANS then moved that the name of JESSE JONES be struck from the bill and the name of WILLIAM MCMURRAY be inserted in its place. This motion also prevailed with little appearance of opposition, leading Democratic Senators voting for the motion. At this stage of the proceedings Senator FIELDS came in and took his seat. Mr. FIELDS, after he had made a motion to strike out the enacting clause, which failed to carry, moved to insert the name of Mr. PURDY in place of that of Mr. JONES, which he would have stricken out. Mr. FIELDS alone voted for this change. Mr. FIELDS then moved to strike out the name of Mr. BOSWORTH and insert the name of J. C. WILLETT. Senator SHAFER inquired where Mr. WILLETT lived. Mr. FIELDS replied that he lived in the Twelfth Ward of New-York City. Mr. FIELDS then went on to speak at great length. He began by referring to the pleasant which he always felt in attending a marriage ceremony. Such ceremonies gave him a great pleasure, whether they celebrated the union of persons of different sexes or of political parties. He referred to the scene of yesterday, and acknowledged that he had been appalled by the representations that had been made. He had for a time thought that he was wrong in acting as required by his constituents, and had thought he ought to yield. He had thought that he should change his first determination. As matters now were, he should accuse those who had yesterday accused him. There were been bargains that might be made, and the reference to thirty pieces of silver made yesterday, he would have took on these who first made it. He spoke of the Hartman friend as a special representative of the Executive in terms of reprehension. Senator COGANS intimated that some one would take care of himself when the time came. Senator FIELDS applied the remark to the Senator from the Fifth, (COGANS,) and proceeded to lecture him and the Senate upon the misfortune of nervousness.

Senator COGANS inquired if the Senator from the Seventh (FIELDS) had given an illustration of this misfortune yesterday, when he received the shock which had been so manifest to all. Mr. FIELDS replied that he had afforded a partial illustration, but had recovered by means of a cold bath.

This style of discussion continued on the part of Senator FIELDS to a great length, and with a good deal of criticism. He made several references evidently very influsive to Mr. COGANS. He then proceeded to read the resolution which had been referred to yesterday, of which he had then been ignorant. He insisted that it only disapproved of the Police Bill or a reorganization of the police, but gave no particular direction in regard to cause. He also affirmed that he did not know of the resolution yesterday.

Mr. FIELDS held that he alone had stood up for the City of New-York, in voting as he had for Mr. PURDY, and others had deserted their party, but not he. Senator COGANS replied with great earnestness and indignation to the personal remarks of Mr. FIELDS. He had said nothing of taking care of himself; he the Senator had understood him to say, but had referred to the ability of Gov. SEWARD to take care of himself. He would not condescend to notice the personal allusions of the Senator, much less to reply to them.

Senator SHAFER followed Mr. COGANS in reply to Mr. FIELDS, and administered, at least so far as the member was concerned, a most scathing rebuke. He expressed the pain he felt that it had again become necessary to refer to the scene that had occurred on the floor yesterday. The Senator from the Seventh (FIELDS) had, however, made it imperative upon him to do so. The distinguished Senator from the Seventh, had said in his place yesterday, that he did not then know of the resolution adopted in Democratic caucus, to which reference had been repeatedly made, and which the Senator had just read. He wished to know if he still stood to that declaration? Senator FIELDS replied that he did. "Then," said Senator SHAFER, "it is with great pain that I am necessarily, under the circumstances, the messenger of the Senator." Mr. FIELDS again reiterated his declaration.

Senator SHAFER then stated in the most impressive manner, that he could show by the testimony of many of the most unimpeachable witnesses, citizens of Albany, that Senator FIELDS knew of the resolution at the time he closed his speech on Wednesday evening. "This," said Senator SHAFER, "is simply a question of fact, and I will prove it if the Senator puts me to the test. The truth is, my distinguished friend from the Seventh, was prepared to betray his party. In that (turning to Senator FIELDS with intense earnestness of expression,) plain and direct! I would have been glad if you had spared me the pain of making this declaration."

Senator FIELDS replied to his statement, urging that he alone had done no to the City of New-York and the Democratic party, which other Senators had deserted. He entered with great particularity upon the steps he had taken, after the close of his speech on Wednesday evening, to show that he had not been made acquainted with the resolution referred to.

After this several motions were made, one by Senator SHAFER, to insert the name of JOHN KELLY in the bill in place of that of Mr. MCMURRAY. The Committee then rose and reported the bill to the Senate as amended, with the names of ACKER, BOSWORTH, DEWEZEE and MCMURRAY in the bill, and it was ordered to a third reading, by a vote of twenty-four against two, the two opposing votes being those of Messrs. FIELDS and SHAFER.

BURNETT'S CELEBRATED PREPARATIONS.—Among the also toilet preparations in this country none are more carefully and elegantly prepared than those of JOSEPH BURNETT & Co., of Boston.

They are fully established as goods of high order and are indorsed by competent judges as possessing the merit claimed for them. Owing to the increased cost of materials, the proprietors have been compelled to advance their retail prices, and prefer to make this change rather than to lower their quality.

This unavoidable step will be justly appreciated by an intelligent public, and will insure undoubted confidence in the integrity of the preparations.

Trash everywhere abounds, and but little is produced therefrom save injury and disappointment, while articles of real merit must necessarily be worth a corresponding value.

The famous Cocoaine of this firm's manufacture, defies imitation, and sustains itself by increasing sales. It maintains the reputation of being the best hair dressing in the world.

BURNETT also makes a variety of Cooking Extracts, and they have become great favorites among housekeepers.

BURNETT is deserving the high reputation he has attained.—Cleveland Herald.

DEAFNESS

NOISES IN THE HEAD,

Diseases of the Eye, Ear & Throat,

CATARRH CURED

BY

DR. VON EISENBERG,

AT HIS CONSULTING ROOMS,

DEAFNESS AND CATARRH.

No. 23 FORSYTH-ST., NEW-YORK, Oct. 1, 1863.

Dr. Von Eisenberg:

DEAR SIR: Without recapitulating the numerous benefits I have received through your wonderful cure of the deafness I have labored under many years, the blessings I enjoy will convince the most skeptical.

I have tried many aurists, in Europe and America, without success. I was still deaf as a post.

Three years ago I entered your office, underwent one operation, hoping, yet doubting, I should receive any relief, but was agreeably disappointed in finding the genius of your profession.

The innate skill you possess cured my deafness in one almost painless operation.

The joy I experienced was indescribable; 'twas a new life to me.

My hearing is perfect to this day.

I strongly advise all who are suffering under a difficulty of hearing, or total deafness, to consult you immediately, as I also personally recommend all who apply to me. The numerous calls trespass on my time and patience, yet, remembering my own long, weary affliction, causes me to pity them.

This is not written to advertise your well-known, unrivaled reputation—that would be puerile; but as a measure of precaution, to induce all to call on you at once, without troubling me; yet I do not refuse to see any one who comes to me. This is the only way I can show my gratitude.

I also call the attention of those who are suffering from Catarrh, which disease I have labored under one year or more.

I experienced difficulty in breathing, languor, heaviness over the eyes, a sense of tightness on the brain, and copious expectorations of a hard and viscid nature. Accompanying this is a "polypus," quite filling the right nostril. On the 26th ult. you operated on both, killing the polypus, which is gradually passing away, and giving me great relief from the Catarrh. One more operation will effectually cure.

This testimonial brings with it my unalloyed and grateful thanks, with but a poor delineation of your wondrous skill as an Aurist.

I am, Sir, yours very gratefully,

EDWARD TEMPLE HARRISON.

THE SIMPLICITY AND the COMPLETENESS of the BURGLAR ALARM TELEGRAPH, and the manner of connecting every window and door of the house with this one bell is clearly a matter of surprise to some, who consider it an object either by asking an interview at their house or office, by addressing a note to the proprietor, or calling at the office, to inquire if there is really any protection against burglary.

AND ALL DISEASES OF THE

HEAD AND THROAT,

CURED EFFECTUALLY BY

MRS. M. G. BROWN'S

METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY.

NO BORING WITH INSTRUMENTS.

No pouring medicine down the throat. Principal offices No. 410 Arch-st., Philadelphia, Penn., and No. 19 Bond-st., New-York.

READ CAREFULLY THE FOLLOWING:

Mrs. M. G. BROWN'S principal Depot and Laboratory is at No. 410 Arch-st., Philadelphia, where her "METAPHYSICAL DISCOVERY" has been thoroughly tested during the past eighteen months. Poor Richard's Eye Water has been before the public for four years, and has gained a reputation which words fail to express. The Metaphysical Discovery for the cure of the above diseases, has proved a perfect triumph. Thousands have been cured by it when all other remedies have failed. There are three distinct medicines in the discovery—one for the Eyes, one for the Ears, and one for the Scalp. These work in conjunction and strike at the root of all disease, utterly destroying the cause, thus lifting the whole machinery of the body to a higher state of mental and physical life. All cures attempted by instruments or medicines poured down the throat, aggravate disease and destroy the physical system. Thousands in their day suffer martyrdom, and are hastened to an untimely grave. When deafness or any head or throat diseases are aggravated by instruments, they take a stronger hold and firmer grip of the constitution in another form, as effects cannot die while the cause exists. There is but one legitimate cause for all disease, which springs from a law connected with the Eyes.

Mrs. M. G. BROWN, inheriting the power to trace effects to their first cause, confidently assures the world that her "Metaphysical Discovery" strikes at the root of all disease; there is but one root which throngs the human system with diseases. The first effect is a strong congestion with the eyes, which cuts off the salt fountain from the flesh; the flesh gets soft and mattery; this is the true cause of all impurities of the blood. No blood can be pure without the preservation of the flesh. This can only be accomplished through the use of my "Metaphysical Discovery." It opens every tube, vein and nerve passage, and sends forth the natural saline fountain, designed by the Great Machinator for the preservation and working of the whole machinery.

READ MR. WILLIAM LEE'S TESTIMONY.

GLOUCESTER, N. J., Jan. 20, 1864.

I, Mr. William Lee, of Gloucester, Camden county, N. J., do certify that my wife, Ellen, has been suffering severely with a complication of diseases for eight years. The first symptom of disease was a womb complaint, on its first appearance she was confined to her bed for seven weeks; diseases of various kinds set in one after another, till my wife was nearly a skeleton. She has been under the treatment of ten of the first physicians, all of whom failed to render her any relief, and she was fast sinking in the arms of death. It is more than four years since she was able to attend to household duties. I have been compelled to employ a housekeeper, she has given up nearly nursing, useless. Most providentially and through the blessing of God, my housekeeper went up to Kingsessing, Penn., to see her sister. She found that her sister's neighbor, John Richmond, had given up all work, and was at the point of death. He sent for Mrs. M. G. Brown's "Metaphysical Discovery," had been restored to health and is at his work again. When my housekeeper returned, she told me the circumstances, and prevailed on me to write to Mr. Richmond, and ask him the particulars. I done so, and received an answer, which you will find at the bottom of my certificate.

We then sent for Mrs. M. G. Brown's "Metaphysical Discovery," and my wife has used it faithfully, and the result is that the womb disease, which was so bad, is entirely gone. She can now do the work of her own house, which she has not done for many years. I consider that disease is fast leaving her system, and she is regaining her original health. Her eyes, which were diseased, through all her affliction, are now clear and strong, and I unhesitatingly ascribe my wife's recovery from the jaws of death to Mrs. M. G. Brown's "Metaphysical Discovery," and heartily recommend it to those who are suffering from any disease, as it must certainly strike at the root of all diseases. It has done so in my wife's case. Should any person wish to call on me in reference to the above, I am willing to see them personally or write to them if they desire. WILLIAM S. LEE.

ANSWER OF JOHN RICHMOND, KINGSESSING, TO WM. LEE, OF GLOUCESTER, CAMDEN CO., N. J.

KINGSESSING, Sept. 29, 1863.

MR. LEE: Please to accept this as my testimony in behalf of Mrs. G. Brown's "Metaphysical Discovery."

I was upwards of nine months confined with a severe pain in my head, and ringing noise in my ears, deafness, and dimness of sight. I was forced to give up work entirely. I was under the treatment of several medical men, who did all they could to relieve me, but their medicines were of no avail. I was four times at the gates of death, and had made up my mind that death alone could end my misery.

On the ninth day of April a friend called on me and advised me to give Mrs. M. G. Brown a trial. After some hesitation I did so, and in less than three weeks I was at my work again, as well as ever I was in my life, and am still in the enjoyment of excellent health.

By the blessing of God, and Mrs. M. G. Brown's great "Metaphysical Discovery," I am once more enabled to earn my daily bread.

I am yours truly, with respect,

JOHN RICHMOND.

READ THE TESTIMONY OF MR. CHARLES VICK.

I, Charles Vick, of No. 86 Flatbush-av., Brooklyn, do certify that my son Charles has been quite deaf for several years, with very offensive discharges from both ears, taken from scarlet fever. He was very fond of his books previous to his sickness, but after that did not care to look at them, and tied them up and put them away. He shunned society of every kind. In this state I took him to Mrs. M. G. Brown, of No. 23 Bond-st. I got her opinion and advice, and brought home with me her Metaphysical Discovery, and used it according to directions on the bottles. The result is, in a few days my son heard a drum on the street, which he could not before he became deaf. His hearing is returning; the offensive discharges have ceased; the noises have gone from his head, and, greatly to our surprise, he went and took down his books again, and seems to delight in them as formerly. I consider my son greatly benefited, both mentally and physically, and heartily recommend Mrs. M. G. Brown's mode of treatment to all who are suffering.

A number of certificates from patients in New-York will shortly appear in the papers, or can be seen now at the office, No. 23 Bond-st.

WHAT WILLIAM WESLEY SAYS.

I, William Wesley, of Ledia, four miles from Newark, do certify that I have been troubled with a diseased eye for five years. I was six months at two infirmaries in New-York, and left worse than when I went. I then went under the first eye doctor in Newark; but found my eye was going so fast, concluded I would be blind, and gave them all up till I saw Mrs. M. G. Brown's wonderful cures in the paper, when I resolved to try once more. Going to No. 23 Bond-st., I procured the medicine, and, now, after using it two weeks, I sit in Mrs. M. G. Brown's office a cured young man, overjoyed at my good fortune in the preservation of my eye. The second time I used the medicine I felt that the disease was giving, and that I had get the right medicine at last. I this day bring another young man with me, that he may be cured also, and I recommend all who suffer not to tribe five years as I did, but go right at once to No. 23 Bond-st. and get rid of their diseases.

DEAFNESS, CATARRH, IMPAIRED SIGHT, &c.

Three remarkable cures in one family, by Mrs. M. G. Brown, Metaphysical Physician and Professor on the Eye, Ear, Throat, &c.

I, Henry Wicker, aged 70, No. 232 East 26th-st., New-York, do certify that I have been very deaf for a long time, but by the use of Mrs. M. G. Brown's "Metaphysical Discovery" my hearing has been entirely restored, so that I can now enjoy church service, &c., which I could not before.

I, Mrs. E. Russell, a member of the same family, am now using Mrs. M. G. Brown's Metaphysical Discovery for catarrh, from which I have suffered many years. I find the catarrh fast disappearing, and at the same time it has restored to me the full use of one of my arms, which I had lost the entire use of for fourteen years.

I, Miss Elizabeth Russell, of the same family, do certify, that I have had chronic sore eyes from measles for twenty years, with a bad catarrh and cough, and was a martyr to neuralgia, the most painful kind, for seven years. In this condition, I called on Mrs. M. G. Brown, and procured her "Metaphysical Discovery," and the result is that my eyes are entirely restored. The cough, catarrh and neuralgia also are wholly gone. While using the remedies, I think I discharged from my breast and lungs fifty-two quarts of green and yellow matter, and I feel as if I had entered on a new existence. All our family feel grateful to God for the great benefit derived from Mrs. M. G. Brown's remedies, after being sufferers for so many years, and we most heartily recommend to all afflicted to try her remedies.

Mr. Wicker's family have kindly consented to see any one who may call on them.

I, John Hensell, of No. 163 West 26th-st., do certify that I have suffered from a child with deafness. I think I inherited it from my mother. For the past 11 years I have been very deaf in both ears. Of late I got so dizzy that I had to give up work. I procured Mrs. M. G. Brown's Metaphysical Discovery. It has brought me to my hearing; I can hear distinctly. I could not hear my watch tick for 11 years. I can hear the reading in the Bible class well. My dizziness is gone. I am like a new man. I recommend all to use this great medicine.

New-York, Feb. 11, 1864.

The "Metaphysical Discovery," with full directions for using, will be sent to any address on receipt of $5. Also the celebrated Poor Richard's Eye Water, and "Sealy Remedies," each $1.

IODINE.

IODINE WATER:

A SOLUTION OF PURE IODINE IN PURE WATER.

PREPARED ONLY BY

DR. H. ANDERS & CO.,

Physicians and Chemists,

NO. 450 BROADWAY, NEW-YORK.

IT ACTS UPON THE HEART,

LIVER, KIDNEYS,

DIGESTIVE ORGANS, AND GLANDULAR SYSTEM.

The unparalleled success in private practice and the indorsement of

HIGH MEDICAL AUTHORITY,

enable us to recommend

IODINE WATER

for the cure of Scrofula in all forms, Consumption, Cancer, Bronchitis, Heart, Liver and Kidney Diseases; Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Nervous Affections, Female Weaknesses, Dyspepsia, Syphilis, Mercurial Disease, etc.

AS A TONIC,

its operation is evinced by strengthening the digestive organs and exciting the appetite. In cases of Dyspepsia, Emaciation and Debility, an increased nutrition of the body is the result of the employment of Iodine Water. The patient recovers flesh, strength and color; hitherto pale, relaxed and feeble, he becomes full, strong and florid.

Iodine Water is put up with full directions around each bottle, that it may be used as a family medicine as well as by the practitioner.

Physicians may rely upon the uniform strength of this solution, as containing ¼ grains of Iodine in each fluid ounce pure water—no solvent being used. It is not liable to decomposition nor spontaneously forged inequalities; neither is the Iodine neutralized by combination with any ingredient, and as no unpleasant or injurious results can arise from its continued use, this solution will be found superior to any other method in which Iodine can be exhibited.

The great success which has attended the use of Iodine Water in our own practice, and in the hands of those who have used it, enables us to recommend it to the practitioner and the public as a superior remedy for the cure of Chronic diseases, which have resisted other treatment, feeling confident that with a fair trial it will attest its own excellence.

The genuineness of this solution and its excellence as a medicine are attested by the names of such distinguished men as Dr. Jas. R. Chilton, Professor R. H. Parker, Professor Jas. C. Booth, Dr. E. Whitney, Dr. H. Klingstein, and others.

Price $1 per bottle, $6 per half dozen. Sold by
